WHAT MOORHEAD TEACHERS COLLEGE OFFERS

1. The first two years of the degree curriculum is made up of studies such as are offered in any standard college or university preparatory to entering professional curricula.
2. The latter two years give the student a choice of majors in English, social science, physical science, biological science, French, physical education, mathematics, art, music, geography, and industrial arts; and a choice of minors in speech, speech and journalism, or in any of the above-mentioned fields.
3. In addition to major academic fields, a degree student gets special professional training. For three terms he has a chance to gain classroom experience in the subjects he expects to teach, with the advantage of help from master teachers, something not available in schools that do not specialize in teacher training.
4. His degree prepares him for teaching in the elementary school, in the junior or senior high school, for supervisory and administrative positions, or for certificates in special fields.
5. The college also offers a two-year course for teaching in grades or superior ungraded elementary and rural schools.

Music—Chapel Choir, Band, Orchestra, quartets and ensembles, together with private lessons in voice, piano, violin, and instrumental music offer full opportunities to the music student and teacher.

Dramatics, Debate, Journalism—Opportunities in all these fields are open to every student from freshman to senior.

Religious Affiliations—The Lutheran Students Association, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Newman Club, and the Congregational Students Club welcome all students to membership. Local churches cooperate with these organizations.
