News of the College

FOREWORD

This number of the Bulletin is devoted to news of the faculty and students and to the highlights of the Fall Quarter's activities. A later number will describe various aspects of curriculum and administrative organization together with present and future plans in regard to the physical plant.

It is possible that this and future issues on the news of the College may direct attention to changes that are taking place. To the alumni the College of 1949 may not seem to be the College they knew, but the College today has the same purpose and spirit for which it was established. It is still concerned with developing intelligent citizens, extending human understanding through education, and offering a broad and systematic program of teacher education.

Series 45

November, 1949

Number 3

Published quarterly at Moorhead, Minnesota.

Entered as second class mail matter at the post office at Moorhead, Minnesota, under the act of August 24, 1912.

THE COLLEGE YEAR BEGINS

The College year began with many favorable indications. The week's delay in the opening was utilized by the administration and faculty to perfect plans for registration and the week of orientation. Time was also available for a "faculty institute" which provided for faculty discussions, council and committee meetings, and group conferences. As a result of this period of co-operative planning the Fall Quarter began with a well-co-ordinated schedule of activities.

Students and faculty were able to arrange and complete academic programs for all classes. Upperclassmen had adequate time to confer individually with their advisers and were also given time to assist with the orientation program. Freshman activities were arranged so that there was appropriate time for academic advisement, classification tests, and social occasions. When class work began, it functioned immediately with very few changes necessary in schedules or class organization.

THE FRESHMEN BECOME ORIENTED

As an introduction to the regular academic program of the year Orientation Week gave evidence of encouraging prospects for the year. The freshman class is large: 102 men; 177 women, and is made up of a group of alert and promising students. The freshmen made very creditable showing in the entrance examinations and entered wholeheartedly into the social activities planned for their special benefit.

The Student Commission with the help of other upperclassmen and faculty advisers sponsored a tour tea, arranged an all-college talent program, and organized an all-college party. The Y.W.C.A. provided a "mixer" party that gave the freshmen an initial experience with the spirit of friendliness that prevails on the campus. A picnic planned by Miss Dahl and Dr. Snarr was the opportunity for an informal gathering of faculty and students. When the freshmen met for their breakfast on Sunday morning they were well on the way to becoming real members of the College community.

THE COLLEGE CELEBRATES HOMECOMING

Plans for the '49 Homecoming were introduced last spring and were organized early in the Fall quarter. The Student Commission appointed committees, arranged schedules, and organized activities that would initiate and promote interest and college spirit for the alumni reunion. Clubs, sororities, fraternities, and honor societies issued invitations to alumni gatherings. The freshman class caught the spirit of the occasion; they learned the college songs and yells and organized for the traditional sack rush and for their responsibilities. Concentration on the idea of a successful Homecoming became an all-college activity involving the administration, the students, and the faculty.

The campaign for the election of the queen was carried out within the rules set up by the Student Commission and with ingenuity and spirited rivalry. The final selection of queen and her five attendants was accepted by the College as a popular choice. These elected representatives were honored at the traditional events: the coronation, parade, football game, and dance.

A pleasant social innovation of this year's Homecoming was the open house held in the dormitories. The men in Ballard Hall were justifiably proud of their new surroundings and the many attractive features of the men's dormitory. The Dragons lost the game and the coveted battle axe to Bemidji, but the dance and the other social reunions served to make the '49 Homecoming a memorable occasion to the alumni and to the College.

THE COLLEGE IS HOST

The Western Division of the M. E. A. met at Moorhead on October 21 and 22 with headquarters at the College. Mr. Kise of the Social Studies Division, who is secretary of the Western Division, arranged a series of stimulating and informative programs for the occasion. The general meetings were of vital interest; they included such well-known figures as Mrs. Vera Dean; Senator Paul H. Douglas; Dean Peik; and Josephine Kremer. Musically the general meetings were noteworthy in the appearance of the Winnipeg Concert Orchestra; the Hall Johnson Sextet; the Moorhead State Teachers College Band; and the Concordia College Choir.

The sectional meetings were scheduled so that for both elementary and secondary levels there were experts in subject-matter fields and authorities on present trends in education to serve as speakers and consultants. The College provided classrooms, services of personnel, and other facilities for these meetings. The faculty of the College was prominently represented at the meetings by members serving as chairmen and speakers at various sections. Mr. McGarrity was chairman of the instrumental music section; Mr. Max Powers was one of the speakers in the speech section; Miss FitzMaurice presided at the section devoted to geography and languages; Miss Marian Smith was chairman of the high-school mathematics section; Miss Karen Kivi was a speaker at the librarian's section; Dr. Genevieve King was the speaker at the high-school science meetings. Mr. Addicott assisted in the meeting of the local associations. Other members of the faculty participated as advisers and hosts.

THE COLLEGE OFFERS MANY ATTRACTIONS

The center of College activities is in the classroom, but the College also provides for extra curriculum offerings that will enhance and promote the work of the classroom. The programs at Convocation and the contributions made by student groups and special departments have developed a variety of educational and entertaining programs.

The Music Department has been generous in its contributions: the chairman, Dr. Harmon, and Mrs. Harmon, and Miss Wingert provided a convocation program. The M.S.T.C. band directed by Mr. McGarrity gave a concert for convocation and has added much to the spirit of the football games. On November 21, the M.S.T.C. choir conducted by Dr. Harmon presented the oratorio, Elijah.

College interest in dramatics has been stimulated by the production of the freshman play and the one-act play by the Dragon Masquers. One of the outstanding dramatic performances of the quarter will be the Theatre Guild's presentation of The Hasty Heart on December 6. This popular Broadway show with the director and cast selected by the New York Theatre Guild will bring to the students and to the community the opportunity of seeing the leading theatrical group in America.

Other attractions offered were lectures on current subjects: Dr. L. M. Gould, President of Carleton College; Luther Youngdahl, Governor of Minnesota; the Rev. Ward F. Boyd of Fargo; and Harold Bangert, Fargo attorney were convocation speakers during the quarter.

The Art Department has been instrumental in securing significant art exhibits. A display on Modern Swedish Art featuring pottery, glassware, weaving, architecture, and dinnerware was exhibited for a week in November. An exhibit of a number of Grandma Moses' paintings which came from her first Boston exhibit created a great deal of interest among the students and in the community.

The College offers a variety of social activities for the enjoyment and relaxation of students. Folk dancing is becoming popular and instruction is provided for those who are interested. Social dancing and recreational activities supported by the Student Commission and the Health and Physical Education Department are scheduled for the benefit of individual and group interests.

THE COLLEGE OFFERS IN-SERVICE EDUCATION

Four extension classes are being offered both on and off-campus by the College during the Fall Quarter. Mr. Bridges, chairman of the social studies division, is offering the course entitled "Population Studies" at Fergus Falls. Mr. Heaton is teaching a course in Education at Detroit Lakes. Two courses are offered on the campus; Mr. T. C. Jenkins is teaching "Visual Aids in Education" and Mrs. T. C. Jenkins is teaching "Tests and Measurements." The courses are offered as a result of the demand in the area for in-service education. Other courses both in adult education and teacher education will be offered in the future. The courses to be given will be determined by the needs and demands of those wishing to enroll.

THE COLLEGE PROMOTES CONTINUED EDUCATION OF FACULTY

The College provides for the extension of the education of the faculty through various means. In-service education is encouraged by way of conferences on the campus and by participation in regional and national meetings of educational organizations. Opportunities for leaves of absence and sabbatical leaves are systematic procedures for insuring a continuous interest in advanced study and increased professional competence. During the present year four of the members of the staff are pursuing studies for the advanced degrees.

Mr. Donald Anderson is continuing work beyond the Master's degree at the University of Minnesota. His studies are concentrated in the field of Health and Physical Education.

Mr. Allen Erickson is enrolled in Speech and Education at the University of Minnesota. He is completing course work leading to the doctorate.

Miss Marie Sorknes is continuing her advanced study at the University of Chicago. Her work is in the department of Education.

Miss Maud Wenck is completing work in Music Education at Columbia University that will lead to the Professional Degree. Miss Wenck was granted the degree of Master in Music Education at Northwestern University.

THE COLLEGE ENCOURAGES TRAVEL AND STUDY

During the past summer six members of the faculty went abroad to study and to enjoy the environments of countries outside the United States. All have made enthusiastic reports of pleasant and profitable tours and periods of study.

Miss FitzMaurice visited the South American countries of Columbia and Ecuador. She studied Columbian literature and culture at the Universidad Nacional da Columbia in Bogota.

Through her association with the University Miss FitzMaurice was able to make contacts with the social, political, and literary life of the city and the country. After the close of the summer session in Columbia she visited Ecuador and traveled through the entire region that was affected by the recent earthquake. The summer was rich in experiences for Miss FitzMaurice and she hopes to repeat them.

Miss Frick and Miss McKellar attended the first International Congress on Physical Education for College Women at the University of Copenhagen in Denmark and the Lingiad in Stockholm, Sweden. They also traveled in England, Norway, Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, and France. They managed to combine professional study with sightseeing and returned with stimulating ideas and memories and momentos of a glorious summer. A summary of Miss Frick's report on the Congress in Copenhagen included the following account: About forty-five college women teachers convened in Copenhagen in July for the Congress. The Moorhead State Teachers College was the only college in the State that was represented and the only one of the smaller schools with two representatives. The meetings covered a study of a wide variety of general problems and provided film showings depicting works in various schools. There were also occasions provided for school visitations: college, grade, and rural schools. Small committee sessions gave the opportunity for exchange of ideas with women of many countries. After the Congress Miss Frick and Miss McKellar made the trip to Stockholm via the scenic Gota Canal.

Miss McKellar in giving an account of the Lingiad stressed the pageantry and color of the World Gymnastic Festival. The opening performance on July 27th was characterized by pomp and ceremony. Twelve hundred men and women representing fifty-eight nations marched in the arena. The Crown Prince of Sweden opened the Lingiad and the Prime Minister was the principal speaker of the occasion. Another event of interest was the demonstrations of the voluntary gymnastics which has become a national movement in Sweden. The demonstration was given by a group of five thousand housewives from all counties in Sweden. These women are from all classes of society; their average age is forty five. The delegates were also privileged to see demonstrations of folk dancing by the groups from Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and France.

Miss Williams spent her summer holiday in the great art museums of the East. In Washington she visited the National Gallery, the Freer Gallery, and the Smithsonian. In New York she visited the Metropolitan, the Frick Museum, and the Museum of Modern Art. She was very much interested in the Museum of Modern Art where were exhibited sculpture of Brancusi, Zorach, Maniship, and others. There was also an important exhibit of Twentieth Century Italian Art. On her travels she was able to view the Early American paintings in the Boston Museum and the Italian Renaissance paintings at the Gardner Museum. The Diego Rivera murals were part of her trip to Detroit Museum. The Yale Museum afforded the opportunity of studying the collection of Copley's paintings. The museum excursions have further stimulated Miss Williams keen interest in exhibits and carefully developed art shows.

Clarence and Barbara Glasrud sailed from Quebec on August 3 on the Franconia for a six weeks' stay in England and a brief excursion into France. Guided by their literary and architectural interests, the Glasruds made a leisurely tour of England's university and cathedral towns, castles, and historic villages, traveling slowly by bus and when possible staying at country inns and exploring the country on foot. Their journey led them the length of England, from St. Ives in the southwestern-most tip of Cornwall, to Edinburgh and the moorland north of the Scottish border. They visited Shakespeare's country, Oxford and Cambridge universities, and the cathedrals at Warwick, Wells, Exeter, Salisbury, and Canterbury. After a stay in London, they went to Paris for ten days, journeying from there to Chartres, to visit the chateau where Mr. Glasrud was stationed with the Army in 1944, as well as to see the famous cathedral. Back in England they made an architectural pilgrimage to the cathedral towns of Ely, Lincoln, York, and Durham; crossed into Scotland, and spent the last days of their stay in Britain at the village of Melrose, site of Melrose Abbey and the home of Sir Walter Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Jenkins spent their summer holiday in Mexico. Even after previous visits they find Mexico the land of enchantment. One of their chief interests was observing the ingenuity of the Mexican people in utilizing the natural resources of their country in building homes and in securing food. Their visits to the leather workers of Guadalajara, the silversmiths of Taxco, the potters of San Pedro were opportunities for appreciating the skills and products of the highest type of expert craftsmen. Their interest in art led them to a study of the Pallacio de la Belles in Mexico City and to tours of the many cathedrals in other cities and towns. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins found another attraction in this incomparable land. Their knowledge of the language and customs made it possible for them "to live well on about one-fourth to one-third of what it costs to stay at home."

THE COLLEGE PRESENTS NEW MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY

At the opening of the Fall quarter twenty-three new members became a part of the faculty organization. The new members were assigned to positions vacated by the retirements and resignations of former faculty personnel. The College is fortunate in securing new personnel excellently qualified in education and in experience for the positions to which they are assigned. A short account of the background of each of the new comers is intended to serve as an introduction to the new faculty.

Mr. Dick Edmund Adams has charge of the journalism activities of the College and teaches classes in English. He attended the University of North Dakota for two years and received his B. J. from the University of Missouri in 1940. In 1949 he was granted an M. A. from the University of Minnesota. His specialization was English and journalism. Mr. Adams was in the military service with the rank of major in the Air Force and Air Force Reserve. He was overseas for two years in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and Corsica. His experience includes work with the Retail Credit Company and the position of Branch Manager of Retailer's Commercial Agency. In the service he organized and taught classes in orientation and armament.

LAWRENCE ANDERSON is in charge of the business education classes new at MSTC this year, teaching typing, accounting, and shorthand. He was awarded the B. A. degree from Mayville State Teachers College in 1939 with special certificates in music and commercial and a minor in natural science. From 1939-41, he was high school principal at Gary, Minnesota, and from 1941-43, he served in the same position at Bird Island, Minnesota. With the Standard Oil Company in 1943, he was assigned to an office auditing course until he enlisted in the US navy in 1944. While in boot camp at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, he sang with the Bluejacket choir. After receiving his naval discharge in 1946, he returned to Standard Oil at their Moorhead pipeline terminal. In 1947, he re-entered the navy as yeoman bookkeeper at the Fargo Naval Reserve Station. From January-July, 1949, he was a partner in the West Fargo Union Stockyard garage. He established the Fisk tire dealerships for the Service Chevrolet Company of Fargo for one month before coming to MSTC in 1949. He has done work toward his M. A. degree at the University of Chicago. He is married and has one son and one daughter.

MARY JANE ANFINSON is resident counselor of the MSTC dormitories for women. She graduated with honor from Winona State Teachers College in 1942, receiving the BS degree. She belongs to Kappa Delta Pi and Blue Key honor societies. She has majors in English and history and minors in speech, social studies, and a library endorsement. From 1942 to 1949 she taught in high schools of Minnesota, Florida, and California.

OLAF ANFINSON teaches classes in physics in the Division of Science and Mathematics. He received the BE degree from Winona State Teachers College in 1939. His major is science and he has minors in mathematics and social science. In 1943, he received the certificate of attainment from the US army signal corps in radio and electronics, graduating with honor from the radar program at the Missouri School of Mines. He has had teaching experience in Minnesota and Illinois high schools, the Winona State Teachers College physics department, and at Florida Southern College, Lakeland Florida. He has done graduate study at the University of Southern California and the University of Minnesota.

ALICE MARGARET BARTELS is replacing Miss Maude Wenck as director of vocal music activities at the MSTC campus high school this year, while Miss Wenck is on sabbatical leave to study. Miss Bartels holds the BFA degree cum laude from the University of South Dakota and received the M.A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1949. Her major is music and her minors are history and English. She has had teaching experience in Irene, South Dakota from 1940-42 and at Vermilion, South Dakota, in 1947-48. In both schools, she had charge of vocal music in grades 1-12. Clerical experience has been at Winner, South Dakota from 1933-37 and in Washington, D. C. in 1942-47. Her activities include band, vocal music, orchestra, and debate.

FREDERICK WILLIAM BIERHAUS coaches football in the college and teaches classes in physical education in the Department of Health and Physical Education. He attended the University of Minnesota in 1938-39 and then transferred to St. Cloud State Teachers College where he earned the BS degree in 1942. He holds the ME degree from the University of Minnesota, granted in 1947. His major field is physical education and his minors are social science and biological science. He has had coaching experience in Morris, Minnesota, Omaha, Nebraska, and Stillwater, Minnesota. In the US navy in 1943-45, he was commander of a PT boat, division leader, and a recreation officer. He was named all-conference quarterback while at St. Cloud in 1940, 1941, and 1942, and was also selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He is married and has one son.

HOWARD BINFORD is director of MSTC public relations on a part-time basis while a senior at the college. He will receive his BS degree after the 1950 summer session. His major is English, with minors in journalism, speech, and Spanish. He edited and was business manager of the Western MISTIC, was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, was elected publicity commissioner on the Student Commission, and was president of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalism fraternity at MSTC.

MSTC

... A State College established in the faith that public education is essential for a society of free citizens—exerting a religious influence without fostering creedal beliefs—constituted of a faculty educated in leading universities and devoted to the personal and professional development of youth.
