Size, Personalized Education Major Factors In Choosing Moorhead

Size, cost and opportunity for a more personalized education were among factors frequently mentioned in a spring poll that sought to determine why students chose Moorhead State College for their education.

The survey was conducted by the MSC Student Survey Committee with the help of Spurs, a service organization of sophomore women.

Area factors such as "living in Fargo-Moorhead," or "near home" were major considerations for students in all classes, but appeared to be especially high for transfer students. Opportunity for teacher contact was also emphasized, especially by freshmen.

Low cost was a major consideration for many students, but transfer students placed more emphasis on the college reputation for academic quality than on costs.

Freshmen gave "Tri-College opportunities" as an entry reason much more often than students in other classes, suggesting that they are more aware of these opportunities than others have been.

The Tri-College University is a cooperative arrangement that permits students from Moorhead State, Concordia and North Dakota State University to take courses at the other colleges without paying any additional tuition or fees.

The student poll also sought to determine why students, after entering MSC, continue here. General familiarity with the college — its facilities and people — was mentioned most often. Size and satisfying student relationships also rated high.

In general, students who continue at the college indicate they have had academic success and tend to emphasize the positive quality of their educational experience.

The tables below summarize results of the poll. "A" indicates average for all students, "B" is for freshmen and "C" for transfer students.

Women Now Eligible For Army ROTC

Women at Moorhead State College will be able to enroll for both Army and Officer Training Corp (ROTC) classes this fall.

The classes are scheduled at North Dakota State University in Fargo, and, as with many other classes, are open to MSC students through the Tri-College University.

This fall will be the first time Army ROTC classes have been open to women. The Air Force expanded its program to include women a few years ago.

The cover photograph of the moon was taken by William Reese of Fergus Falls as one of the projects for a course in Astro-Photography which he took on an arranged basis with his astronomy professor.

Reese, who graduated from Moorhead State in May, pursued an individualized major in Astro-Physics.

The individualized major at MSC permits a student to develop his own program and is particularly appropriate for students whose interests and time do not fit one of the traditional majors and whose occupational plans do not require one.

The moon photo was taken from the library roof with a Nikon camera and telescope with a one second exposure at F:30.

Dr. William Thomas

Dr. Thomas Named Chairman of HPER Department at MSC

Dr. William L. Thomas, 36, has been named new chairman of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department at Moorhead State College, succeeding Donald N. Anderson, a 1941 MSC graduate who has held the chairmanship for the past 14 years.

Dr. Thomas, a native of Valley City, N.D., earned his graduate degrees in physical education at Colorado State College. He taught science and physical education at Valley City High School, 1959-1963, where he also served as assistant football coach. He came to Fargo in 1963 as physical education instructor and football coach at Agassiz Junior High and joined the Moorhead State College Faculty in 1966. His major teaching fields are anatomy and physiology, and he has been head baseball coach since 1968. He is the co-author of a college-level human anatomy textbook.

Anderson, a native of Detroit Lakes, has been a member of the Moorhead State College Faculty since 1941. He retired from active reserve service last December after completing 31 years as a commissioned officer in the Minnesota Army National Guard. Active in campus government, he served 12 consecutive years on the Faculty Senate and held the offices of president and secretary at various times.

MSC Students Study In Norway Under Special Grants

Two students in the Scandinavian Studies Program at Moorhead State College studied in Norway this summer with the aid of scholarships made available by area Sons of Norway lodges.

They are Christine Rustad of Fosston and Ray Johnston of Detroit Lakes.

A sophomore majoring in Business Education and minoring in Scandinavian Studies, Miss Rustad was awarded an annual scholarship offered by Sons of Norway lodges in the North Dakota-Montana District. The award, providing round-trip air transportation to Norway, is given to the student showing the most aptitude and promise among those enrolled in the MSC Scandinavian Studies Program.

Johnston, a 1973 graduate who majored in secondary language teaching, spent last fall in Norway as one of the first three recipients of foreign internships offered Moorhead State students in the Scandinavian Studies Program. This summer he studied at the University of Oslo's International Summer School with the aid of one scholarship offered by the Sons of Norway lodges in the Minnesota-South Dakota District and second given him by his fellow members of the Detroit Lakes lodge.

In-State Tuition Rates Available Now For Veterans

Veterans who are not Minnesota residents will no longer have to pay out-of-state tuition rates.

A new Minnesota State College Board regulation, which went into effect June 11, provides that any individual who has served in the U.S. Armed Forces for more than 190 days after training will be considered a Minnesota resident for tuition purposes.

According to Les Bakke, MSC veterans service officer, the new regulation will mean a $300 per year saving for veterans. The ruling also permits a veteran to live outside of Minnesota while attending Moorhead State College.

Dr. Catherine Warrick

Dr. Warrick Chosen To Direct Moorhead State's New Center

Dr. Catherine M. Warrick, who has served in a number of administrative positions at the University of Minnesota and most recently as dean of learning development at Minnesota Metropolitan State College, has been named director of the New Center for Multidisciplinary Studies at Moorhead State College.

She succeeds David D. Johnson, an official of the U.S. Office of Education, who was granted a year's leave of absence to guide the New Center through its first year, 1972-73.

The New Center is an innovative educational opportunity for students interested in career-oriented two-year degree programs. The Center provides certain aspects of a junior college and offers career programs that are not available elsewhere in the college service area. The New Center also seeks to aid students in establishing career goals and provides a medium for experimental education.

Dr. Warrick said a major aim next year will be to serve young people who have not made up their minds about a career field and are uncertain as to what to do following graduation from high school. The focus of the New Center, she said, will be on "value clarification, decision-making techniques and goal-setting."

Admission to the New Center is based on a student's interest rather than academic rank and test scores.

Dr. Warrick is a cum laude graduate of Pasadena College in California where she majored in English and history. She earned her master's degree at the University of Southern California in English and education and her doctorate at Indiana University, majoring in English language and higher education.

With the exception of a year as a special assistant to the associate director of Higher Education in the U.S. Office of Education, Washington, Dr. Warrick has been at the University of Minnesota and last year at Metropolitan State College. She served at the University as coordinator of a Title I grant for the Minnesota Planning and Counseling Center for Women, then as assistant director of this program. She has also been assistant to the dean of the University's General College and assistant to the dean in the University College.

Registration for the spring quarter will be held March 5 with classes beginning on March 6. The spring quarter will close on May 24.

Dr. Ronald Litherland

Dr. Litherland Heads State Personnel Guidance Group

Dr. Ronald Litherland, associate professor of education and coordinator of counselor education at Moorhead State College, has been named president-elect of the Minnesota Personnel and Guidance Association.

He will serve as head of the organization, which includes about 700 high school, college and vocational counselors, during the 1974-75 year.

Dr. Litherland came to MSC in 1966 after serving two years as a junior high math teacher and two years as a test consultant for the Iowa Testing Program. He earned his bachelor's degree at Iowa State University and took his graduate work in guidance and counseling at the University of Iowa.

Senior Woman Gets Major Grant From National Society

Lonna M. Puefing of rural Red Lake Falls, an MSC senior, is one of 22 college students in the U.S. who have been awarded scholarships for the 1973-74 year by the National Society of Public Accountants Scholarship Foundation.

She was chosen from among 480 applicants and will receive a $300 grant.

Awards are based on academic achievement, leadership, extra-curricular activities and financial need.

COLLEGE SERVICES GROW

ALL-TIME TOTAL ENROLLMENT HIGH RECORDED IN 1972-73

Development of new educational services for area residents has aided Moorhead State College to attain an all-time total enrollment peak for a regular school year during 1972-73, according to a July report by Don Engberg, registrar.

The total head count for three quarters of the regular 1972-73 school year was 18,482, or nearly 2,000 ahead of the previous school year. The 1973 spring quarter enrollment set a new single-quarter high at MSC, with 6,540 registered, over 1,000 ahead of the previous spring. Enrollment of new students alone last spring totaled 711, compared to 267 in the spring of 1972 and 96 in 1971.

The reason for the enrollment increase is the substantial jump in the number of people attending expanded off-campus, evening class and workshop offerings, Engberg said.

Enrollment of on-campus full-time students appears to have stabilized for a time at a level slightly lower than recent peak years.

Engberg said the latest figures indicate "a changing trend in college services. We're now serving a larger number of people with more diverse needs and interest than at any other time. We're trying to provide the people of our area with the educational services they need."

Besides the fact that more people are attending classes to satisfy their own needs and interests, Engberg cites three other reasons for the increase in part-time student enrollments.

Foremost is the human relations course requirement which the Minnesota Department of Education established last year as mandatory for all education majors and teachers now in the field but seeking recertification.

Other reasons include the training of more teachers for vocational-technical schools and the creation of new teaching and technological fields.

Employed persons are also showing an increasing interest in college courses and programs, Engberg said.

Special education, computer science and mass communications are examples of comparatively new departments at Moorhead State that have exhibited strong growth in enrollment, according to Engberg.

FACULTY SENATE ELECTS DR. CHOY

Dr. Timothy Choy, assistant professor of speech, was unanimously elected chairperson of the MSC Faculty Senate May 23, succeeding Dr. Clarence Glasrud.

A native of Honolulu, Dr. Choy came to Moorhead State in 1969. He earned his master's and doctor's degrees at Pennsylvania State University, majoring in rhetoric and public address. He has served as chairperson of the Council on Curriculum and Instruction at MSC and as vice chairperson of the Faculty Senate.

Student Employment Center Opens

The Job Shop, a new job-referral service for MSC students, opened at the college this fall.

The new service attempts to match prospective employers in the Fargo-Moorhead area with Moorhead State students looking for work. Jean Schoenborn, a senior from Milona, Minn. majoring in English, is coordinator of the service and supervises a staff of four, all students.

John Johnson, assistant director of the Placement Bureau, serves as the Job Shop adviser.

Dr. Allen Erickson Completes 27 Years Of Service To MSC

After 27 years of teaching at Moorhead State College, Dr. Allen G. Erickson, professor of education, conducted his last class on July 20.

He is one of two faculty members who are retiring from the college faculty this year. The other is Mrs. Swanhild Kaste, an assistant catalogue librarian who has been at Moorhead State since 1969 and formerly taught high schools in Erskine, Mentor and Mahanomen.

A 1933 MSC graduate in education and English, Dr. Erickson has seen the college grow from 435 students to over 5,000.

Dr. Erickson also mentions growth in the variety of departments and divisions as another major change he has witnessed. "There has been an emphasis away from the teachers' college to a university setup," he points out.

He feels students today are better prepared for doing college work than they were years ago. "They express themselves better orally, in writing and are better readers."

The E-Quality Program, established in 1968, helped improve understanding between people of the community, students and black people, Dr. Erickson feels. And the relationship between Moorhead State, Concordia and North Dakota State University is "much healthier than it was when I came here.

"There is more intermingling of students in classes and more cooperation on the part of the administrations. I look for more and better programs by the Tri-College University."

Dr. Erickson is a native of Breckenridge and a graduate of Fergus Falls High School. He received his master's degree from the University of Minnesota in 1938 and his doctorate in Reading at the University of Oregon in 1954.

Before coming to Moorhead State to teach in 1946, he taught in junior and senior high schools in Correll, Breckenridge and Coleraine; served as high school principal in Felton and Warren and superintendent in Wolverton.

Beginning in the MSC Speech Department in 1946, he began concentrating in 1950 on remedial reading, the discipline with which he became most closely associated throughout his college teaching career. He was a charter member and first president of the Red River Reading Council. A certified consulting psychologist for the State of Minnesota, he was appointed in the late 1960's by Governor Harold LeVander to serve two terms on the Governor's Board on Handicapped, Gifted and Exceptional Children.

He wrote the Handbook for Reading Tutors in 1970, and also Reading Innovations in American Schools, published in 1971.

Dr. Erickson and his wife, Ruth, plan to continue making their home in Moorhead.

Earns $2400 Award

Renzy Richardson of Belzoni, Miss., a senior who completed her undergraduate work at Moorhead State this summer, has been awarded a full tuition scholarship plus a $2,400 stipend to pursue graduate work at the University of Michigan School of Social Work in Ann Arbor. She majored at MSC in social services.

Dr. B. Spencer Meeks Jr.

Dr. Meeks Chosen New Chairman Of Chemistry Dept.

Dr. B. Spencer Meeks Jr., a member of the Moorhead State College faculty since 1962, has been named new chairman of the chemistry department.

He succeeds Dr. Nicholas Kowanko, who has served as chairman since 1969 and is being relieved so he can devote more time to research.

Dr. Meeks earned his bachelor's degree at the University of South Carolina and his doctorate at Cornell University in New York.

Before coming to Moorhead State, he served two years as associate professor at Mercer University in Macon, Georgia, and four years at the Bandung Institute in Indonesia as chairman of the chemistry department.

Food Service Area Being Remodeled

Improvements designed to make Kise Commons, the college food service, more attractive for dining have been completed this fall.

The work includes carpeting for the floors, new lighting, modifications in the ceiling and more separation of the service lines and eating areas. The eating areas will also be partitioned by the use of architectural plantings.

an Old Fashioned 4th of July

It began with the Moorhead VFW Post raising the colors on the college flagpole and with President Roland Dille leading the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance and reading the Declaration of Independence.

And it concluded with the Moorhead American Legion Post sponsoring an evening band concert and fireworks display at Nemzek Stadium.

In between, the people of Moorhead and Fargo, including the very young and the very old, came to the Moorhead State College campus for an "Old-Fashioned 4th of July," organized by the college as one of the events in a series of summer programs leading toward the 1976 Bicentennial of the U. S.

All who came enjoyed free ice cream, lemonade and coffee, and there were free balloons, free movies, an afternoon band concert, bicycle and costume parades for children, and games and contests for all. Two theatre productions and planetarium shows also attracted large crowds.

College officials hope to make this college-community celebration an annual affair.

The Forum reporter who spent the day on the campus put it this way: "Wednesday, July 4, at Moorhead State College people didn't seem to need anything but a superbly organized party—which it was—and one another—all 1,000 of them—to have a good time."

Two Faculty Members To Study At Ecumenical Institute

Two members of the Moorhead State College Faculty will study during the coming year at the Institute for Ecumenical and Cultural Research at St. John's University, Collegeville.

Dr. Swaran Sandhu, professor of sociology and anthropology and a Gandhian, and Dr. John Gibbs, associate professor of humanities and a United Presbyterian, have been awarded places in the Institute.

Dr. Sandhu will do research on the use of violence and non-violence in general and in sociol-political change in particular. His research also will include the study of non-violence in India, his native land, and violence in the U.S.

Dr. Gibbs has been awarded a

Dr. Gibbs

fellowship to study the theological presuppositions to ecological problems, with special reference to biblical evidence.

The St. John's Institute has room for ten scholars at one time, representing different religious denominations. The only other residential ecumenical center in the world is in Jerusalem.

Everett A. Warren

Everett Warren, Math Professor, Dies At 47

Everett A. (Red) Warren, assistant professor of mathematics at Moorhead State College, died June 1 of an apparent heart attack. He was 47 years old.

A Kentucky native, Mr. Warren held an undergraduate degree from Western Kentucky State College, a master's degree from Iowa State College, Cedar Falls, and had taken additional graduate work at Purdue University, the University of Minnesota and George Peabody College for Teachers.

He married Shelda Jacobson, June 6, 1960. She is also an assistant professor of mathematics at MSC.

Mr. Warren had been active in campus government, serving as a member of the Faculty Advisory Council to the President and as a member of the Faculty Senate.

In a tribute delivered at funeral services June 5 in Moorhead, President Roland Dille described Mr. Warren as one "who so well represents this college community because he was so much one of us."

In addition to his wife, he leaves a daughter, his mother and two sisters. Burial was in Moorhead Memorial Gardens.

New Director to Coordinate Instructional Resources

Dr. Darrel Meinke has been appointed director of instructional resources at Moorhead State College to coordinate the educational resources in the Library, Audio-Visual Center, Regional Television Center, Lommen Media Center and various departments.

A major aim is to improve instruction through better organization and effective use of many available media resources.

Dr. Meinke also works with the Media Generalist Program, which was approved for certification by the Minnesota Department of Education last April. The Media Generalist Certificate is awarded to librarians and audiovisual specialists who have an education degree plus 44 hours in specified library science or audiovisual courses and six hours in elementary and-or secondary school curriculum. Two years of classroom teaching or school media center work also are required.

Before coming to MSC, Dr. Meinke served 18 years at Concordia Teacher's College, Seward, Nebraska, as assistant academic dean and director of the library. He has also worked as a high school and elementary school librarian and elementary school principal.

He earned his bachelor of science, master of education and doctor of education degrees from the University of Nebraska. He also has a master of arts degree from Denver University and has done post-doctorate work at Michigan State University.

Chemistry Students Awarded Scholarships

Ten chemistry students have been awarded scholarships for the 1973-74 year. The scholarships were awarded by the Chemistry Department faculty on the basis of academic achievement.

Scholarship recipients are as follows: $50 Awards from the Worum Chemistry Co. of St. Paul went to John Porwoll of Rosemount and Terry Gustafson of Detroit Lakes.

Two $50 Awards from the MSC Chemistry Club went to Steve Hoiium and Linda Flaig, both of Moorhead.

Al Johnston of Tracy, Jackie Sundboom of Cedar and Rick Samuelson of Ada, all receive $50 Awards from Simon's Home Furnishings of Moorhead.

Twin City Construction of Fargo provided $50 Awards for Robert Johnson of Lake Bronson and Dennis Kunerth of Long Prairie; and one $100 Award to Reid Amborn of Grand Rapids.

More Students Have Preference For Dormitories

More Moorhead State College students will be dormitory residents this year than during 1972-73, according to a preliminary July report by the College Housing Office.

This follows a trend that has developed in recent years as more students have returned to the campus residence halls.

Convenience of living on campus is cited as one of the major reasons students give for returning to campus living, according to Elliot Garb, director of housing. The increased cost of living off campus, especially for food, and the options that are now available on campus, including some apartment-style housing, are also given as reasons students are finding campus living more attractive.

Garb says there has also been a change in the residence hall staff image. "The house mother image has changed to one more in tune with the students, more of a professional staff."

Student residence hall assistants now function mostly as "student facilitators," rather than "Control Agents," he adds.

Dormitories have a 91 per cent occupancy this fall.

History Professor Gets Summer Grant

Dr. Lee Grugel, associate professor of history at Moorhead State, is one of ten history teachers in U.S. colleges who were awarded a summer stipend under a new program of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The program offers ten history teachers and ten English teachers the opportunity to work in a seminar setting with recognized scholars at major university centers.

Dr. Grugel, whose fields of special interest are Modern European History, Intellectual History and English History, attended the seminar at Ohio State University entitled, "Tragic and Comic Forms in the Novel of the 19th and 20th Centuries in English and American Literature."

CAMPUS DAY CARE CENTER—The tiny tot, above, engrossed in his painting, is among those children who are enrolled in a Day Care Center on the Moorhead State College campus. The Center, supervised by Dorothy A. Dodds, assistant professor of education, is open all year and accepts children from 6 weeks old up to first grade. The Center is a service for married students, faculty members and working parents of the community, and is also used for observation by students enrolled in the Early Childhood Education Program and serves as a practicum for students pursuing careers in Nursery School Day Care. Mass Com Majors Get Scholarships

Emah Anyang, a junior from Nigeria majoring in Mass Communications at MSC, has been awarded a $500 scholarship for next year by the Scripps Howard Foundation.

The Scripps Howard Foundation annually awards a number of scholarships to deserving young people who are preparing for careers in journalism and mass communication.

Emah is the second Mass Communications major to receive major scholarship award this year. Earlier, Carol Braun, a senior from Brooklyn Center, was one of two students in state competition who received a $250 grant from the Minnesota Press Club.

MSC-NDSU EXCHANGE

New Arrangement Provides More Educational Choices

Under a bilateral arrangement approved in July, students at Moorhead State College and North Dakota State University in Fargo will have an opportunity to take entire programs at the neighboring institution if the program is not offered at the home institution.

The new arrangement broadens the overall program of the Tri-College University.

Under the broadened program, a student at NDSU could obtain a degree, for example, in special education from MSC by taking the bulk of the courses at MSC while still enrolled at NDSU. He would obtain the degree from MSC by transferring only in the final phase of the program to meet degree requirements.

Likewise, a student at MSC could major in engineering by enrolling the first three years at Moorhead and taking the final year at NDSU.

“This enables those two institutions

Woman Athlete Gets Two Awards

Deborah Jacobson of Hendrum, a physical education and health major who graduated in May, was named recipient of major awards in women's intercollegiate athletics for the 1972-73 year. She was awarded both the Flora Frick Award and the Good Sportsmanship Award.

Given to the outstanding senior woman physical education major, the Flora Frick Award is for women who have been active in intercollegiate athletics and have maintained high standard of academic achievements.

to exchange full programs,” according to Dr. Albert Anderson, provost of the Tri-College University. He pointed out that more educational choices will now be available to students in both institutions and that the new agreement will cover any undergraduate or degree program for MSC and NDSU students which is not offered at the home institution.

Implemented in 1969, the Tri-College University has aroused considerable interest in educational circles as a movement towards a freer flow of students among the Moorhead-Fargo college, Moorhead State and Concordia in Moorhead, and North Dakota State in Fargo.

Dr. Anderson said the Tri-College University is unique because it is the only two-state and public-private college exchange in higher education in the country.

New Facilities For Counseling, Computer Science

By Julie Henderson

The remodeling of 41-year-old Flora Frick Hall, one of the oldest buildings on the Moorhead State College campus, was completed in September, providing new quarters for the Counseling Center, Computer Center and Computer Science Department, Student Advisers and Printing and Duplicating Services.

A Student Response System is one of the new features included in the remodeled second floor of the building. The system provides a method for quickly tabulating and correcting responses to multiple choice questions, and will be available for use by all departments in the college.

Also on the second floor, occupying an area which formerly was the old gymnasium, is the Computer Science Department. The Computer Center is across the hall in an area that formerly was a small gymnasium. Special equipment has been installed to maintain proper heat and moisture levels for the computer operation.

The Counseling Center with a main office, individual staff offices and a library, is located on the first floor. Other services on the first floor area include the Student Advisers offices and Printing and Duplicating Services.

The swimming pool that was on the first floor has been retained and given a new filtration system and new equipment.

The area that formerly was an open tunnel between MacLean Hall and Flora Frick Hall has become an enclosed lounge, permitting students to move from Owens Hall, through Biology Hall, Flora Frick, MacLean and Bridges Halls without going outside. Fire doors are installed between the buildings and are designed to close when an alarm sounds.

The remodeling project was begun in September, 1972 at a cost of about $470,000.

For many years, Flora Frick Hall housed the physical education facilities at the college. Complete facilities for both men and women are now included in Alex Nemzek Hall.

Flora Frick was a former instructor of German and physical education at MSC.

Flora Frick Hall is the new home for the Computer Science Department and the Computer Center.

Career library is one of several opportunities available in new Counseling Center.

Student advisers have new quarters in central area.

Ross Fortier

Fortier Named Athletic Director; Continues As Coach

Ross Fortier, head football coach at Moorhead State since 1970, has been appointed director of athletics at the college succeeding Dr. T. E. Smith who relinquished his duties as athletic director at the end of May.

Dr. Smith will remain on the staff as a professor in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department. Fortier will retain his football coaching assignment, beginning his fourth season with the Dragons this fall.

An outstanding high school athlete at Bemidji, Fortier attended North Dakota State University, where he was co-captain of the 1959 Bison football squad. He earned 11 athletic letters at NDSU and remained on the staff there for two years before moving to Melrose where he coached football and baseball for two years.

Fortier came to MSC as a graduate assistant in 1964 and earned his master's degree here in 1965, remaining on the staff to serve as assistant football and basketball coach. He returned to NDSU as assistant football coach in 1967. He accepted the head coaching duties at MSC in 1970 and has compiled a three year record of 18-8-2. He guided the Dragons to the 1971 Northern Intercollegiate Conference Football Title and earned "NIC Football Coach of the Year" honors that fall.

New Assignments Made For Alumni, Development, Foundation Programs

Dr. John Jenkins

Dr. John Jenkins, associate dean of administrative affairs, has assumed responsibilities for planning and development in a re-assignment of staff duties following the retirement July 1 of Chet Lacy, director of development.

$90,000 Awarded In Scholarship Program

Moorhead State College awarded about $90,000 in scholarships to more than 450 students, including 215 freshmen and 32 junior college students, for the 1973-74 year. Most of the scholarships were made possible through contributions to the "Dollars for Scholars," "The Promise of '76," campaigns and the Dragon Athletic Club program.

Dr. Jenkins will direct operations of the Moorhead State College Foundation and other development projects.

Lois Selberg, coordinator of special projects in the office of academic affairs, will be in charge of alumni publications, and Lucille Kresal will continue as office manager for alumni and development affairs.

The Alumni Board under the direction of President Dennis Olson of Fargo will share in some of the responsibilities of the alumni office.

Lacy joined the college staff in 1969 and assisted in the organization of the MSC Foundation, the President's Club and the "Promise of '76 Fund Drive."
