TWO DEBATE DUOS GO TO JAMESTOWN

DEBATERS CLASH WITH JIMMIES TUESDAY; WERE HOSTS TO JAMESTOWN FEB. 24

In a series of non-decision tilts the debate teams representing the College will endeavor to prove their angle on the question, "Resolved That All Nations Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade."

In a battle of wits with the Jamestown "Jimmies" Tuesday, March 3, at Jamestown, a Dragon team composed of Donald Bird, Detroit Lakes, and Wilson Dokken, Thief River Falls, will uphold the affirmative side of the question before the Sons of Norway Lodge.

Women to Argue.

A girls' negative team made up of Ethel Gunderson, Erhard, and Elianor Sherman, Fergus Falls, will clash with the women's team of Jamestown on the same question before the Lions Club of that city at noon, March 4.

In a return engagement the men's affirmative team of M. S. T. C. will debate Mayville at the Teachers College on the same question. The date has not been definitely set as yet.

Set as a tentative date, March 19 is the time when a team of three Dragon men will journey to Mankato S. T. C. to uphold the affirmative cause, and St. Cloud S. T. C. will come to Moorhead the same evening.

Jimmies Are Here.

M. S. T. C. acted as host to the Jamestown College debaters Tuesday, March 24, when the women's debate teams representing the two colleges clashed on the free trade question in the afternoon, and the men's teams on Tuesday evening.

The women's affirmative team of the College was composed of Eva Arsenau, Crookston, and Delia Peterson, Wheaton, while Arthur Rustvold, Hendrum, and Clarence Gludt, Dent, made up the men's negative team.

Arch-Dragons Apply Technique With Few Relapses While Spouses Look On

(By Ralph Johnson)

Displaying their volley ball proficiency before a critical, cynical, cheering, and jeering throng of students, the faculty Arch-Dragons by contorting their figures into all shapes and roaming all over the floor at once, definitely and with lots of technique administered two characteristically pedagogical defeats to their fellow "knowledge dispensers" from across the river, Fargo High School, by the decidedly mathematical score of 15 to 10 in both games. Looks as though they are consistent in volley ball if nothing else.

Anyway, according to mathematical measurement, applied and otherwise, Dr. Locke's feet were consistently and unwaveringly always the same distance apart. Whenever he was in his characteristic playing crouch, hair matted and mouth open in readiness for the rapidly weaving, bobbing ball, he put such fear into the hearts of the awe-stricken Fargo High School Faculty team that they were hypnotized and helpless whenever he caught their eye.

The name Arch-Dragons for faculty representatives was started on last year's eastern geography tour when students were referred to as Dragons, student officials as Super-Dragons, and faculty members as Arch-Dragons. This year the faculty volley ball team adopted this name as symbolic and adapted to their team.

There were many times when these downhill lapses were about to commence only to have the wily Kise apply diplomacy, and with justice and equality to all, serve the ball to places not covered by the unsuspecting Fargo hexagon. Christensen administered supreme psychology to the fullest extent, by developing a superiority complex among his teammates and at the same time forcing an inferiority complex upon the opposing team.

During all this excitement D. Bird remained perched high up on a rail, wisely chirping of the faculty shortcomings to his innocent little Eva.

In keeping score, "Buzz" Robinson did an ordinary three man job, keeping track of his girls as they entered the armory to see this practical contest. He would make the mistake of marking down two points instead of one as he wafted a kiss at the stately Evelyn Cook and then smiled from

In Pioneer Drama

John Bystrom, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Bystrom, Moorhead, who will appear in "Giants in the Earth" in the character of Ola Hansa, son of Per Hansa, Norwegian pioneer.

SYMPHONY GIVES UP EASTERN TOUR

SEATTLE AGGREGATION WILL NOT MAKE TRIP; STRING QUARTET TO APPEAR

The Seattle Symphony Orchestra, which was booked to appear here during the early part of March, has given up its tour East because of the economic depression, according to Bertam Haigh, tour manager for the orchestra. Mr. Haigh pointed out that it was impossible to get enough guarantees to insure the financial success of the immense undertaking.

"We regret that we cannot have this fine orchestra this spring, for we had counted on hearing it, but there is nothing we can do about the matter," said Mr. Christensen, chairman of the Lyceum committee.

After having served Moorhead State Teachers College as Resident Director for the past eight years, Dr. O. J. Hagen stated Saturday that he would resign from that position to become a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota from the Ninth Congressional district if his appointment by the ninth district legislative delegation is confirmed by the legislative committee and Governor Olson.

Appointed by Governor Preus in 1923 and reappointed in 1927 by Governor Christianson, Dr. Hagen will have completed eight continual years of service as Resident Director of M. S. T. C. by March 21.

Changing from the field of education to that of medicine, Dr. Hagen located at Moorhead, where he has been practicing for the last 24 years, after completing work in the field of medicine at the University of Minnesota, University of Berlin, Harvard University, and Jefferson Medical College.

In addition to the offices already mentioned, Dr. Hagen has held many other positions of trust too numerous to mention, but which denote his outstanding success in both the educational and medicinal fields.

"Peder Victorious"

Stanley Norman Murray, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Murray, who will play the part of Peder Victorious in "Giants in the Earth", annual class play to be presented tomorrow night.

Players Settle Last Minute Complexities

Rehearsals for "Giants in the Earth" to be produced in Weld Hall auditorium tomorrow night, February 28, has grown hectic the last week. The cast has bordered on delirium as complications loom up ominously. The vigilant eye of Miss Tainter notes the microscopic detail, and advice is handed out with a liberal demand. "Now, people, don't rely on chance to take care of things at the last moment. Be prepared beforehand for emergencies."

Comes a moan from Per Hansa, "Ya-as, but what if that kid starts to howl when I'm talking to it in the last act? If he does, by gosh, I'll blow a lungful of smoke into his face. This old corn-cob is getting kinda strong and that ought to put the kid out of commission until the curtain comes down."

Question of what the well-dressed man will wear: "Hey, Miss Tainter, what'm I gonna wear when I'm sick in bed in act two?"

Voice of Crazy Bridget, "Say, you big egg, that's no question to ask a lady. Sleep in your underwear, and see to it that the buttons are all sewed on tight. I don't want to experience any embarrassing moment when I have to listen to your heart beats."

"What'll we do with our spare time when we don't have to come to rehearsals any more?"

"Wait till this thing is over before you start worrying about that!"

"I think it looks more like a coffin. I wish it were big enough to fit me. It would come in handy after the last curtain."

RABBI WILL TALK IN CHAPEL FRIDAY

TRAINING SCHOOL TO PRESENT MUSIC TREAT WEDNESDAY; FIRE OFFICIAL TALKS

Featuring students from the Training School, a program of music will be rendered in chapel assembly next Wednesday.

Is recent fiction educational? At the chapel exercises a week from today, March 6, Dr. Emanuel Steinheim, Rabbi of the Jewish church of Butte, Montana, will discuss this question in his speech entitled, "Education in Recent Fiction."

Harmony Group Sings.

Introducing the "Harmony Group" under the direction of Miss Wenck, a varied program was presented during today's assembly.

Fire prevention week was observed last Wednesday in chapel, when the Moorhead Chamber of Commerce presented Mr. Lewis Hall, Minneapolis, representing the Minnesota State Fire Protection Bureau, to the faculty and students.

Stresses Prevention.

Mr. Hall stated, "The United States loses billions of dollars each year due to destruction of forests and material property because of fires which could have been prevented." He went on to say, "However, property losses can be, in time, replaced, but there is one loss that can never be replaced, and that is the tremendous loss of human life taken each year by this ravishing element."

DRAGONS DEFEND PENNANT ON TOUR

TO COMPLETE SEASON MONDAY; WIN LOOSE GAME FROM ELLENDALE 39-21

On the home stretch of the Interstate Athletic Conference championship race, the Dragons will leave this week-end for Ellendale, where they will again try to show their superiority over the Dusties. Following this game, they will leave for Jamestown, where the season will be wound up Monday night when the Jimmie team will act as hosts to the Moorhead delegation of basketeers.

Although the Dusties were trampled in the contest last Saturday night, they have a faculty for having things their own way on their home floor. Jamestown, with everything to win and nothing to lose, will be out to avenge their defeat earlier in the season at the Armory. Coach Nemzek's warriors have hopes to end the season without another defeat, because two losses would elevate Wahpeton to a tie for the championship.

Play Is Ragged.

Unleashing an attack at times savage in the second half, the Dragons dusted the Ellendale Dusties on the floor of the Armory when they ran up a 39-21 score. As is generally the case with the Crimson and White (Continued on Page Four)

COLLEGE RETAINS CLASS "A" RATING

M. S. T. C. AGAIN ACCORDED FIRST RANK BY TEACHERS COLLEGE ASSOCIATION

That the College is retained on the "Class A" list of the American Association of Teachers Colleges is the news brought back Wednesday by President MacLean from his trip to Detroit, Michigan, where he attended the association meeting, together with the sessions of the National Education Association.

This is the highest ranking given to teachers colleges which offer four years of standard college work.

President MacLean, before going to Detroit, conferred with the state architects who are making detailed plans for the four new buildings which are to be erected on the campus this year.

Dr. Archer, who is also in attendance at the meetings, is expected home soon, as is Miss Bieri. Miss Lumley, who attended the deans section, returned earlier in the week.

OUR PLATFORM

1. One hundred Seniors in 1933.
2. Every student in some Extra-Curricular Activity.
3. A male enrollment of two hundred in 1932.
4. A new and more distinctive name for our newspaper.

ON TO VICTORY

With but two more steps to take, the Dragon five will probably reach the top in interstate basketball circles. Closing the season on the home floor, the relentless Dragons swept off their feet a valiant Dusty quintet.

For the student there is now a lull of a few weeks in the active field of athletics. Your spirit of loyalty will not be manifested actively for a time perhaps, but with a second Interstate victory practically assured, let us look ahead to further conquest and still more glory. With the advent of that dallying and close-at-hand spring, the indomitable spirit of battle will be distributed among various improperly called "minor" sports—baseball, track, tennis, and possibly spring football.

These sports have heretofore been considered but lightly as a general rule. However, from now henceforth, let us emphasize such "minor" sports to as great a degree, as we are now impressed with the importance of activity on the gridiron and basketball court.

During this relatively passive period let us look ahead to greater things, and not only let us think, but plan to bring M. S. T. C. out on top in baseball, tennis, and track. At a later date we will consider each in detail, but now we wish for you students to be planning this ambitious Dragon spring program and your part in it, for it is your co-operation and your willingness to participate that will assure the success of our most ardent hopes!

—D. B.

VARIED LYCEUM NUMBERS

There is an old saying to the effect that you can never suit everybody and if you try too hard you will probably suit nobody; this maxim often has provided a great deal of consolation for those whose thankless task it is to make selections which will please others. The people responsible for choosing the numbers on our lyceum course are placed in just such an unhappy situation.

Undoubtedly the numbers which have been presented at the College this year through the efforts of our Lyceum Committee have been thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the student body sufficiently interested to attend these concerts. The three concerts presented so far this year, however, have been limited to the field of music, and even though there are a great number of students in this school interested in that field indeed we feel sure that every student in school could find something well worth his while in these concerts, but we also feel that these students also have a right to expect some other things more closely allied to their own interests.

We believe that we are safe in assuming that the prime object of our lyceum course is to provide entertainment of the highest class possible for the student body and at the same time to raise the general standard of appreciation of the best things in the line of entertainment. We believe that "the greatest good for the greatest number" is or should be a guiding principle in the selection of the special features brought here at such a great expense. We believe that besides the best in the field of music we should also be given an opportunity to appreciate that best in the field of dramatic art. To this end we ask that the students of this College make known their wishes in the matter for we feel sure that upon the student body rests the real decision in regard to what we can expect in our lyceum programs.

—C. A. G.

Campus Comment

Why don't we have pep assemblies to arouse school spirit of the students to such an extent that they will attend debates and support the "team" (Rah! Rah! Rah!)? Surely our "Spanish Athletes" need their support when they strive to uphold the honor of dear old M. S. T. C. (sarcasm—whenever it fit).

Most excellent advice was offered us in a recent open letter entitled, "Strive for a Degree," but we are just wondering who is going to evaluate us. We can foresee some real sales talks!

Perhaps the introducing of the "Free Trade" story will help the teacher's salary proposition. The negative debaters around school have almost (?) convinced us that it isn't much good for anything else.

One thing that surprises us around this school is the longevity of the Modern Pep Pepys. Maybe it's because the marksmen around this school are no better shots than the would-be assassins of Mussolini for our brazen chronicler certainly has exhibited no scruples so far.

The new course in "American Civilization" which is being tried at Detroit Lakes and which will in all probability be extended to other towns, seems to be a most excellent plan for instruction of the general public along every line of American development and at the same time should serve to advertise M. S. T. C.

As one of the season's great events dawns with presentation of "Giants in the Earth" more attraction to inveigle the public and swell the gate receipts. Stanley Norman and Lawrence Gilbert Murray (of the Murray's of forensic fame) are added to the "all star" cast.

As the Mu Gamma chapter of Sigma Tau Delta national English fraternity takes its place among M. S. T. C. educational groups we approach another step nearer national recognition. It is not unusual for colleges to be ranked by the number of national societies on the campus.

Taking a firmer grip on the Conference sceptre by defeating the Ellendale "Dusties" (by the way, they aren't so dusty as they are cracked up to be) the Dragons' basketeers should have comparatively safe sliding to a Conference victory but they won't lay down on the job until they have made their conquest complete and this they should do tonight.

Both the College squad and University of N. D. debaters, because of the lack of time, were forced to admit so much to bring the argument to a common level that they almost proved each other's case. In fact, the last North Dakota man summed up the case so admirably that he convinced us to his side of the argument by admitting our case.

If the Y. M. C. A. makes use of the officers and committee heads announced in the last issue of The MISTIC they will certainly offer us some programs worth attending. In our way of speaking we should say they have picked "the cream of the crop."

The Open Column

BOOKS WILL STRAY

Now that the melancholy days are come, when term papers are due, when notebooks must be handed in, when students are searching madly through magazines, reserve books, or even whole libraries for something new in the line of thought for debate, one-act plays, final readings and themes, does it lessen the degree of melancholia to which we have sunk, to be told that the magazines and books we seek have been taken out by instructors for an indefinite period of time? It does not!

Nor are we troubled with hilarity when we learn that the one book explaining and unraveling that double-jointed folk dance, invented by our frolicsome English ancestors, is being used by the girls at the "dorm".

The fact that twenty-five or thirty groups of students are looking for one-act plays and are finding them in half as many books has not been any cause for joyful noises or cheers.

We are not complaining of the dirth of material in our library. We all know that a great collection of books, reduced to ashes in a few hours, cannot be replaced. There is ample material, but it is often elsewhere when we need it. Let us not forget the "other fellow". When you have found what you wanted "please return" even though the "indefinite" period has not ended, for even the most intelligent students at M. S. T. C. must, sometimes, hunt new material.

—Anon.

LET'S ALLOW "CUTS"

There has been so much talk of changing certain established customs lately that I hesitate to introduce another.

My change has to do with the excuse system we have at present. I am not criticizing the method of obtaining an excuse but rather the reasons for which one should be given. Illness seems to be the only accepted reason for absences from classes under the present system, and the students when asked why they were absent automatically reply, "Well, I wasn't feeling well."

We all know there are other causes besides illness which make it impossible through no fault of the student to attend classes. But, when these very same reasons are presented to those in charge and meet with their disapproval, what can one do? Should a student be made to suffer for something which he has had no hand in making to come about? No, he should not. Neither should those in charge be criticized for not granting excuses on those grounds.

It is said that a person should not introduce something new unless that which is brought forth is better than the old. The fallacy of our excuse system is that it is not "definite" enough. By that I do not mean that the present system would be improved by making out a list of certain causes for which excuses should be granted. That undoubtedly would lead to an abuse of the privilege, but why not introduce a system allowing a limited number of "cuts" each term for which no excuse would have to be given and thereby doing away with this controversy over what constitutes a valid excuse. Other schools use this system to advantage. Why can't ours?

—A. R.

Dragon's Dragnet

Dr. Locke has accomplished the seemingly impossible. He has administered exams to two different classes at the same time and conducted both of the exams absolutely "on the square".

Rup. Krienbring—"Say, I wonder what 'rat' appropriated my 'Soci' book?"

Ralph Johnson—"I got it."

Some of the "Soci" students have been heard to complain that they can't go to Fergus Falls for two and a half. We hasten to remind them that they can't lose; all insane persons, violent or otherwise, are worth $5 upon arrival at Fergus Falls.

Upon arriving home Sunday night after the debate trip. Clarence Glasrud found that not even the family dog recognized him. We asked Clarence about it, and he said Abraham Lincoln had nothing on him in the way of humanitarian accomplishments. It seems he waded in the six-foot mire to help push out a humble Förd from a ditch.

Nellie Maland—Gee! Ray (Simonitsch) why do you wear those denim trousers?

Ray Simonitsch—Well, I can't afford to be sent to jail.

Evelyn Gunderson (recruiting for off-campus girls' dinner)—"Are you off-campus?"

Solveig Headland (beautifully but dumbly)—"No, I'm on the campus—now."

John Ingersoll (upon seeing a basketball player on poster announcing O. C. dinner)—"For gosh sakes! Do WE have to serve it?"

"Mac" MacAllister—"Naw! That means girls that ain't been campused yet."

Boys! A strange lady seems to be on the campus, for a letter came into the exchange not long ago addressed to "Miss Lerlowe Eastlund, Dormitory, M. S. T. C., Moorhead." Since there was no one else of that name listed, the masculine "Easty" received the epistle, which opened, "Dear Madam", and assured him that he could purchase his spring formal at a low price.

Oh, boys, let's look into this!

Many witticisms find their source in the discussion of the World Literature class. Analyzing Faust and the impersonating of Faust by the devil, Miss Hayes wondered whether the students on interviewing the faculty members could tell whether it was the devil in the faculty member. Scrutinize closely after this.

Reminiscing of bygone ages Miss Hayes in World Lit. class told of one time when late at night or early in the morning she crossed the street on her way home. With the usual Stygian darkness surrounding and she in a white dress, a car drew up and its occupant, a young man, inquired if she desired to go for a ride.

Astonished, Miss Hayes turned, the young man ejaculated, "Oh, My God!" and sped away into the night as he recognized his instructor.

(The moral: Be careful, boys!)

The Modern Ped Pepys

There seems to be a growing tendency of the more radical element of college boys and girls to assert themselves by more economic, constructive, and comfortable dressing. The renowned "Ray" of stage fame has procured himself a pair of blue overalls, along with that he rolls up the sleeves of his shirt and goes around with his neck unhampered by any necktie contrivances. If nothing else, instructors give him A's on his ambitious appearance. We also have noticed that some of the girls in the gym class are prone to parade about the campus as long as possible in their gym apparel. Talking about economical dressing, "Wabash" says that Bob Walls, his Scotch roommate, hopes to go through college with the same two pair of pajamas.

Last week Mike Wokasch and Forrest Olson were seen going around the campus pretty well bandaged up about the face. Upon looking into the matter it was found that they both wanted to carry the books of a tantalizing, pretty brunette, none other than Eunice Holte. In the inevitable and disastrous quarrel that followed both lost out in their one chance of a lifetime, as Clarence Melby arrived on the scene and carried the girl's books to her destination, leaving the other ambitious suitors to fight it out.

So is life, joy leading to sorrow, and just as my roommate says the girl friend comes and goes like a summer's breeze, always leaving gloomy weather, leaving him (of the true blue type) who can resist the canned lines of some of our usually irresistible feminine beauties to find consolation in his studies, thereby making possible the dreamed-of aspiration of his beloved inspiration. But we others are not so fortunate and tend to be inveigled into passing our precious hours of evening study on some irresistible girl's davenport after having been fleeced to the extent of a dollar or two for carfare and theatre tickets. But most of these cases are but passing fancies and but vain attempts to paint the clouds of everyday routine and studies; and thus this diversion keeps us up in the art of loving, and serves as a joyful stepping stone to next week-end's return of the one and only ONE—Gordon Grina would put it.

We have with us this term an unexperienced young masculine blonde in Clarence Berquist, who has caused an epidemic of aching hearts amongst some of our fair maidens, who formerly have been able to break down the conceit and reserve of every man in the college and twist these helpless humans to the wants of their own selfish souls, such as ridding them of frat pins, wrist watches, rings, sweaters and what not. Any way, Enid Pederson and Peggy Shaw claim they can't even get a second glance from this rather indomitable example of what the rest of us boys are striving to be. It is just as the old saying goes, "that which you can't get you always want and that which you can get you tire or rapidly."

It is rumored that last Friday night D. Bird was out cooing till early a. m. before he was brought to the reality of life by other birds that comm-neced squeaking out the joy of life.

Matrimonial Bureau

Dear Windy Wicked:

I am quite disappointed because there are some girls in this school who are getting all the dates and I cannot get any. There is one girl who is a blonde, has a complexion that requires nothing from the drug store, and is pleasingly plump. She has great ability along the intellectual lines and is good in tests. Seeing that I am a blonde, and gentlemen are supposed to prefer blondes, I don't see why I haven't more success with the stronger sex. I especially want a date with one who is a good-looking, dark Romeo. (He just made the Owls and Lambda Phi; they have beautiful pins.) When the Band is on full dress parade, he presents a romantic figure in his splendid regalia.

Some of the young ladies of this institution have kindly consented to allow me to print the methods they use in securing their desires and men in this connection. Watch for the first of these which will appear next week.

Hopefully,
IWANTA KNOE.

The Training School

The 8-B grade and Miss Solem received a present from Mr. O. J. Hagen last week, a pot of beautiful red tulips.

The 8-B citizenship class and the high school citizenship class held an election on February 17, at their respective cottages; the students cast their ballots according to city rules. The outcome was much in keeping with official returns. An excursion was made up town to see the actual votes being cast.

The class in Social Problems are making an intensive study of International Relations.

Miss Heston's English III class is preparing three one-act plays to be presented at one of the high school assemblies in the near future. The plays selected are: Miss Burney in Count; Mrs. Pat and the Law, and the Brink of Silence; the last mentioned play has an entire male cast.

The Girls Physical Education class in the College High School is putting on a demonstration in the student exchange, March 6 at 10:50. This demonstration is in charge of Miss McKellar, assisted by Agnes Gibb.

The high school chorus is scheduled to appear upon the music program in chapel on Wednesday, March 4.

ONE YEAR AGO

The men of the College held a dinner at which time means and methods of increasing the male enrollment were discussed.

The Clay county teachers held their meet in the college.

Debaters Rant And Tear While Murray Referees Argumentative Free-For-All

Time—4:30 to 4:45 p. m. any Tuesday or Thursday.

Place—English room.

Event—"Round Table" discussion at the close of a practice debate.

Characters:

1. Clarence Gludt.
2. The other half of the debate class.
3. Mr. Murray.

As last speaker finishes and moves toward his chair all others rush to center of the room and begin talking. Only the "best-lunged" can be heard. Evelyn Gunderson—Well, I'd like for you to tell me if you can find any country that can't raise its own turnips and saw-dust.

Socrates—Suppose you say something for a change. Who wants turnips? We want free trade (I don't believe it myself but we want it anyway).

Wilson Dokken (seating himself on the dictionary stand)—You bet your life—all the other cave-men had it!

Clarence Gludt—"Ehhhhh—"

Art Rustvold—Yes, but what'll you do in case of war?

Eleanor Sherman and Margaret Krier (in unison)—Stop using "pine-apples"—we don't have to eat 'em.

Dolly Peterson—We aren't going to have war.

Don Bird—Oh, yeah? Mr. Murray—There! That's a fine affirmative argument.

Eva Arsenau—Somebody has to prove that the standard of living of the head hunters will be lowered by a high tariff.

Mr. Murray—Who has an answer for that question?

Don Ingram (appears to have an idea)—Adjusts his collar by thrusting out his chin—remains silent.

Eckley Pilot rolls her eyes and smiles.

"Rube" Krienbring—Let me explain just what we mean by scientific tariff.

All—Standard of living—you've got to prove that—scientific nations—infant industries—I can't see it that way—Well, what would the negative say to that—Hawley-Smoot—Why our country would go straight to—high trade—free tariff.

Door opens—Antone looks in to see what is raising the dust. Eva Larson and others sneak out the door left ajar by janitor.

Dolly Peterson—I don't care, I don't believe it!

Evelyn Gunderson—Well, who wants to use slave-made hairpins?

Clarence Gludt—Yes, or sleep with a Chinese "collie"?

THE BOOK SHELF

REPEAT BOOK RULES

Sometimes students forget by the end of the term just what and how many textbooks they borrowed at the beginning. This causes confusion and delay in the checking in of books at the term end, and in the clearing of charges in the library.

To avoid future difficulties of this kind Miss Hougham makes these suggestions:

1. That you make yourself a list of all books borrowed and keep that list to refer to when returning books.
2. That you write your name on the pocket of each book borrowed and be sure when returning a book that you are returning your own copy and not one borrowed by someone else.
3. That you return books immediately when the use of them is completed (and that is often before the end of the term).
4. That you remember that all books, in every course, must be checked in at the end of each term, even though the same books may be required for the following term's work.

YEARBOOKS ON SHELVES

Have you ever noticed the number of yearbooks of various subjects on the reference shelves in the library? If you haven't, you are missing the easy approach to information in special fields where concise, up-to-date records are required.

Here are a few of the most important. Use the index (in back or front

NEW COURSES ARE OFFERED IN SPRING

IBSEN, ORCHESTRATION, AND PHYSICAL MEASUREMENTS ARE NEW COURSES

Preparations are now complete for the spring quarter schedule and registration has been going on all week. Three new courses will be offered for the first time this term. They are Physical Measurements, Ibsen, and Music. Physical Measurements is an advanced course in physical education which attempts to measure achievements, accomplishments, and abilities in the course of physical education.

Miss Hayes is offering a new course this spring in Ibsen. The class will study the life and plays of the Norwegian author. This course is open to degree students and sophomores majoring in English.

Miss Wenck will offer a new course in music, consisting of Orchestration and Conducting. The course of orchestration takes up the problem encountered in arranging vocal and instrumental compositions for performance by bands and orchestras, while conducting deals with the technique of the baton, rehearsal methods, and a study of usable orchestra and band music as well as vocal scores for various combinations of voices.

DRAGONS DEFEND PENNANT ON TOUR

quint when not facing the very strongest competition, the play was ragged during the first half. Krause, Dustie ace, scored the first basket almost immediately after the tip-off. "Swede" Lien, however, returning after his enforced layoff, rang up three rapid baskets to place the Dragons in the lead, which they held the remainder of the contest.

Both sides threw wild shots with hopes that some of them might enter the hoop. The Dragons shooting was not quite so wild, with the result that they left the floor at the half with the long end of an 18-11 score.

Dragons Find Loop.

Things changed considerably during the second half when Bill Robinson found the range for his long shots. Gilpin also improved his marksmanship to score three field goals and one free throw. Herb Moberg followed Gilpin with three field goals, tied by Lien with the same number of counters. Krause was high point man for the Dusties with three field goals and two free throws.

TEXTBOOKS DUE FRIDAY

The business of checking in the textbooks at the end of the winter term and of checking them out again must be accomplished in two days, Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7. Students are urged to co-operate with the librarians in completing this exchange of books promptly and without interruption of the regular library work. All textbooks are due on Friday and must be returned before five o'clock of that day.

Books for the spring term will be open all day for that purpose. The textbook section will not be open on Monday, so it is imperative that all textbooks be secured on Saturday. ## Northern Lights

It's beginning to look as if "Sliv's" artists have tucked another of those "championships" under their belts.

Those "Dusties" from Ellendale may upset the crystal-gazers when they get the Dragons in their own back yard.

But "Hank" and "Chet" and "Bill" and the rest say that they will put the North Dakota pedagogues on the spot alright.

And then "Sliv" will have to loosen up that old sock of his and slap a few shin plasters down on the counter—

For some of those nice new shiny gold basketballs which means that the Dragons solved the depression problem by grabbing that title.

Besides athletic equipment—we carry all kinds of teaching supplies—come and inspect them.
