new student constitution up for approval MSU faculty rejects IFO protest plan

By Jean House

The new Moorhead State University student constitution is finished, and students will have a chance to either ratify it or dump it on Feb. 17: it will be included on the Winter quarter ballot, along with the Student Senate candidates.

"Our time has been somewhat limited by the course and timing of events to gather as much student input as we could like," explained Senate President Wayne Struble (sr-Fargo), "but we feel this Constitution is a definite plus for student interests."

Struble and others on the Student Constitution Committee have been working all year to get the new Student Constitution on the winter quarter Senate ballot for ratification by the student body. If it is approved by a majority of voters and if at least ten per cent of the students vote, it will be given to President Dille for approval, modification or disapproval. Struble said the prospects for approval by the president are "quite good."

A new Student Constitution had to be formed after the unionization of the faculty. The original Constitution had been an all-university constitution; after the collective bargaining agreement that Constitution became inoperative. It was necessary to write a Student Constitution to define the students' role in the new governance system and maintain student input in the process.

Perhaps the most significant aspect of the Student Constitution, according to Struble, is its list of student rights. In the past some of these rights existed, but students were seldom aware of them. Hopefully the Constitution will increase awareness as well as serve to enhance student welfare. Students and administrators will meet to develop policies in the student academic appeal procedure, evaluation of faculty, attendance policy and use of student records.

Students will also be charged with major responsibilities in the areas of assessment of student activity fees, distribution of student activity money and regulations pertaining to student conduct, the student union and student housing.

Students are invited to attend the Open Forum 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 15 in the Student Union Lounge. Candidates for Student Senate and Student Senate President will discuss the proposed constitution and other student issues.

The complete text of the proposed Moorhead State Student Constitution appears on page 10 of this week's Advocate.

Senate elections Feb. 17

By Susan Turbes

Moorhead State University students will go to the polls next Thursday (Feb. 17) to elect a new Student Senate president and five senators-at-large, as well as approve or disapprove a revised student constitution.

Running for the office of president are Thomas Gunsalus (jr-Rochester) and Carole Cochran (jr-Fergus Falls).

Gunsalus, a theatre major finishing his second term as Senator, said, "if I am elected President I shall endeavor to set forth the will of the students as they feel the University should benefit them.... I believe a constitution is needed to protect the interests of the student and guarantee a proficient educational process. The constitution drafted by the Student Constitution Committee does this and is able to function in this University system."

Cochran, who is majoring in sociology and psychology, said "I see a need to follow through on some policies that are of major concern to students on this campus. Student input is essential

MSU faculty rejects IFO protest plan

By Bob Jensen

Moorhead State University faculty members in a special meeting Thursday (Feb. 3) voted not to accept an Inter-Faculty Organization (IFO) plan designed to slow down the activities of local university administrations in protest of the stagnation in the current contract negotiations.

Had the slowdown proposal been accepted, faculty members would have hindered normal administrative activities at MSU by inspecting their own administrative personnel files, one by one. By this inspection they would not only have exercised their right to see the files, but would have demonstrated dissatisfaction with the State University Board's (SUB) conduct in negotiations, according to IFO members.

Teachers at Mankato and St. Cloud State Universities have already begun the harassing action and the other institutions in the State University System have expressed their support for teachers engaged in the action.

The Executive Council of the MSU Faculty Association rejected the slowdown proposal at their last meeting, with about one-third of the faculty approving that decision at the special meeting. No action was taken to support the actions of the other teachers.

Faculty Association Vice-President Robert Badal said that most of the MSU teachers felt that they would be harassing the wrong people, since the local administration, and especially the secretaries in the President's office, do not control the negotiations process. Many faculty members thought the action would be petty and unrealistic, according to Badal.

"Our faculty members are probably not likely to engage in anything that they don't consider dignified or professional," he said.

Despite the rejection of the IFO plan, "Certainly all of the faculty members are seriously concerned about the standstill at the negotiations table," Badal said.

At the meeting the faculty did vote to send a delegation to meet with President Roland Dille to

TM lecture scheduled

The Students' International Meditation Society is scheduling an introductory lecture on the Transcendental Meditation (TM) technique 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 16, in Room 147 of Comstock Memorial Union.

According to Chuck Foley (so-Halstad), TM is a mental technique of direct experience, not intellectual analysis, that is done for fifteen to twenty minutes in the morning and evening. It is not a substitute for sleep, but allows deep rooted tensions, not reached during sleep, to be eliminated.

Foley, who has been practicing TM for three months, says it has "helped me to focus my studies, and my memory has gotten better, especially for names and faces."

Cost of the course in TM is $65. This includes explanation to techniques, practice, and followup.

Job Shop planned

On Thursday, Feb. 17, the Air Force ROTC Unit at North Dakota State University will sponsor a "Job Shop" at the Town House in the Memorial Union of the NDSU campus. The "Job Shop" will serve as a medium where young officers in the U.S. Air Force will be able to explain their jobs and the benefits and opportunities of serving as officers in the Air Force. All students, faculty and staff are encouraged to visit with these officers from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The planned career fields that will be represented are air traffic control, weather, logistics, piloting, missile operating, engineering, navigating, and transportation.

MSU co-sponsors SMEA convention

Student Minnesota Education Association (SMEA) will be holding its state convention Friday through Sunday, Feb. 11-13 at Moorhead State University and Moorhead Ramada Inn. Host chapters are Moorhead State and Concordia SMEA.

The delegate assembly of the state convention is the supreme decision making body of SMEA. It meets once a year to elect state officers, propose constitutional amendments and bylaw changes and conduct other business.

Featured speaker at the banquet, 7 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 12, at the Riviera Suite of the Moorhead Ramada Inn is Don Hill, president of Minnesota Education Association (MEA).

Delegates to the convention from Moorhead State are: Desi Brawders (so-Roseau), Ann Steen (jr-Halstad), Carol Cournoyer (so-Lowell, IN), Pat Efta (jr-Greenbush), Mary Marsh (jr-Park Rapis), Cheryl Schroyer (jr-Pipestone) and Pam Nelson (sr-Canby).

Fuel crisis delays

Snack Bar opening

Reopening of the remodeled Comstock Memorial Union snack bar has been delayed indefinitely by the fuel crisis. The remodeled snack bar is one of the areas on campus closed off by the administration in an effort to reduce energy consumption at Moorhead State University.

"Even though the snack bar is completed and ready to go, we can't do anything until this fuel crisis is over," said Les Boeder, manager of the food service.

Initial response to the name-the-snack-bar contest and the create-a-sandwich contest has been good, Boeder reported.

The Fargo-Moorhead Audubon Society is sponsoring a program, "Photography of Flowers, Weeds and Grasses," 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 11 in Room 110, King Biology Hall. Harold P. Klug, former director of research at Melon Institute and Fargo-Moorhead Camera Club member will lead the program.

'Day' scheduled

A Day With Eckankar will be featured Saturday, Feb. 12 in Fargo Holiday Inn. Introductory lecture is at 11 a.m., program begins at 1 p.m.

SPURS sponsor career workshop

The Moorhead State University SPURS are sponsoring "The Changing Woman", a workshop to help college women become aware of career opportunities open to them, 7-9:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 16-17 at the Wooden Nickel, in Comstock Memorial Union.

The workshop will feature professional women who successfully fill positions stereotyped as "male". Included will be a machinist, store owner, doctor and lawyer.

MSU fuel bill cut by 50%

By Peg Mahle

A campus-wide spirit of cooperation is enabling Moorhead State University to save up to $16,000 each day in fuel costs, according to Vice President Earl Herring, campus energy coordinator.

"MSU has cut its fuel consumption close to 50 per cent since the winter of 1973," Herring explained. "Measures we took then cut consumption by 28.8 per cent, and the goal of the new energy-saving program (which began Jan. 21) was another 20-25 per cent reduction. It appears we have reached our 20 per cent goal."

"This essentially means that four years ago on a 0-degree day with normal wind conditions we burned over 10,000 gallons of oil. But during the week of Jan. 24-28, on a day when it was minus 3 degrees, we burned 4,900 gallons."

MSU students are defying the cold with long underwear and sweaters and are doing their share to save fuel, according to a recent telephone survey. Of 25 students questioned, 23 were trying to cut down their energy use; most had turned down their room temperatures or were flicking off unnecessary lights.

One man claimed students weren't voluntarily saving fuel, but that "the school makes us freeze." Twenty-three others said most students are cooperating to save energy; "I see a lot more kids in the lounges wrapped in blankets," one girl explained, while another said, "Most are trying to save in small ways, but they could do more."

Asked whether they believe there really is an energy crisis, 19 said 'yes.' Several students added that they aren't certain whether there is a shortage right now, but they realize the possibility of an energy crisis in the future.

Three students surveyed definitely don't believe there is an energy shortage; one man admitted, though, that his friends made him feel so guilty that even he turned his room temperature down to 65 degrees.

"Personal opinion is something I can't keep campus warm with," said Duane Grier, MSU physical plant director, "but I believe yes, there is an energy problem. There's no other reason schools and businesses would be closing out East—they're losing millions of dollars. And this isn't something that's just this winter and will all of a sudden disappear."

Grier said the building and grounds personnel are more than half finished installing plastic wood-frame window covers over specified single-glazed windows. An official from Gov. Perpich's office was on campus Tuesday, Jan. 25, to see energy-saving measures that are being initiated at MSU and how successful they are. He "seemed to be very satisfied," according to Grier.

"The moral here seems to be good," he said. "Naturally people complain about being cold, but at least they say it with a positive attitude."

Herring explained that during the winter MSU burns number six fuel oil, which isn't in as critical supply as number two oil. But many institutions and industries, suffering from shortages of number two, can switch to number six.

"As we cut down our consumption," he said, "it allows others to use the surplus we provide."

Herring feels it was a "wise decision" not to close the university or resort to a four-day class week save energy.

He added that a major problem in closing school would have been what to do about the residence halls, which provide housing for over 2,100 students.

Herring wouldn't rule out a four-day week or closing school, however, "if the cold weather continues and state fuel reserves continue to decline."

"I'd say we've received surprisingly few complaints for the amount of inconvenience and discomfort caused by the lower temperatures," he said. "I guess basically people have just put on a lot more clothing."

Diamonds go right to the heart of the matter on Valentine's Day.

new constitution misleading

By Bruce R. Miller

We hate to knock the results of months of diligent work on the part of several Moorhead State University students, but we feel the drafters of the proposed student constitution have erred in one major part.

That part, of course, involves us, the student newspaper of MSU.

In Section 3, Student Activities, item D., the constitution reads "Student funded media shall not be subject to prior censorship nor shall the allocation process be used as a means of editorial control."

This we applaud. Censorship, prior to printing or after printing, has never been beneficial to any form of democracy.

We also enjoy the words assuring us that student activity funds will not be used to control our paper's content.

This, however, is hardly necessary, since the funds granted to the Advocate do not constitute a major proportion of our operating expenses. In fact, the real "controller", financially, of the Advocate is not the Student Activities Budget Committee (SABC) but rather it is the Fargo-Moorhead business community. As it stands now, the amount granted to the Advocate by the university does not even pay for basic printing costs or even extremely low circulation expenses.

If we were to exist solely on the monies granted to us by MSU, we would only be able to publish an eight-page paper once a month.

Thus, we do not feel this section is in proportion with our allocation. To be able to make such a statement of "protection" would require, on the part of MSU, a more significant financial contribution to the Advocate.

Furthermore, in the same section, mention is given to the removal of "media editors and managers" only for substantial and compelling reasons.

Here again, we are pleased to learn that there is protection for the school's journalists. However, according to Advocate policy, the university students are not responsible for removing the paper's editors. Instead, that power rests with only one person — the publication's publisher who is not a student, but rather a university official.

In Section 7, Student Authority for Development and Recommendation of University Policies, we find another section with which we take issue.

In Item B, "students shall have the right to make recommendations concerning but not limited to the regulations of mass media supported by student fees."

Here again, we must point up the fact that the student media (meaning the Advocate) is not completely or even substantially funded. Thus, any "regulation" of the medium would be only superficial. To be able to say anything about any kind of business operation, a group must be a major stockholder. And, in this case, Moorhead State University is not a major contributor.

Now, we are not saying that the university should increase its allocation to the Advocate. We enjoy being as close to the professional world as possible. And, by being supported significantly by advertising, we are afforded a certain degree of professionalism.

We don't believe, however, that the university's mass media should be singled out for regulation. If one organization funded by SABC is in any way controlled by the students, then we believe they all should be. Rules should apply to every organization—not just the ones singled out for special concern by the constitution's drafters.

Other than these areas of excess, though, we believe the student constitution is a good one, worth the time and effort spent writing it.

We do urge the voters, however, to exercise extreme caution in approving the constitution's six articles.

We see no immediate reason for alarm over any regulation statement concerning the university's media. Intelligent people constitute the student senate. But, in the future, if the wrong people are controlling the senate, such a broadly drawn statement could be extremely detrimental and, possibly finite, for any form of free, published expression by the students of MSU.

90th Birthday Party draws 2,500 MSU fans

By Jean House

The Moorhead Ramada Inn had one of its busiest and noisiest evenings ever when about 2,500 MSU students, alumni and supporters showed up to celebrate MSU's 90th birthday Friday night (Feb. 4).

According to Brent Moore, overall advisor of the party, about 1,960 birthday buttons were sold. He said the turnout was the largest since the three year party tradition started in 1974—"with a good 500 more people than we ever had before."

Moore and various campus organizations including University Club, Alumni Association, Photography Club, Alpha Lambda Delta, Alpha Phi, and Iota Alpha began preparations for the event in December.

The night's activities included dancing to Myron Sommerfeld and the Bon Bon Brass and Chalis, testing luck and patience at blackjack, bingo, and the roulette wheel, going once or twice around the cake walk, having your picture snapped and listening to the coffeehouse singer, Scott Alarik.

The big moment was when President Dille drew the names of the gift certificate and tuition winners. This year's winners:

One quarter's free tuition—Chuck Meixner (fr-Moorhead), Lois M. Johnson (fr-Moorhead), Laura Chamberlain (so-Clontarf), Janice Peterson (r-Moorhead).

$25 gift certificates from the Alumni Association, for the bookstore—Jerry Hershey (jr-Edina), Al Jensen (fr-Cavalier, ND), Thomas Reeves (fr-Albron, MI), Valerie Vanyo (sr-Moorhead).

Actually the only problem connected with the party happened after it was over. Some students had private parties in rented rooms causing many hotel guests to complain. Moore hesitated in calling the room parties "problems" because of the approximately 20 rooms rented out, only five or six of them gave the management trouble. However, before any thought can be given to extending the birthday parties into a standing tradition at MSU for years to come, these problems must be worked out according to Moore.

"We have to deal with the problems we had," explained Moore, "because it may get to the point that the Ramada won't want us back."

Another concern is whether an off-campus party is the best type of activity for the University to give to its students. Some people are upset that such a party makes the University look like it condones drinking. But, Moore added, if the students show they want the event again next year, they will probably succeed in getting it.

indicate they were in support of the activities of the IFO in so far as they may help to forward the action at the negotiations table.

A by-product of the slow down has been the discovery of irregularities in the files of some teachers. "We were told there were some strange things in some of these files," Badal said. "In some instances there was information that was not pertinent to a faculty member's official duties." As a result, some MSU teachers expressed concern over what is contained in their files and are going over and inspecting their files on their own. "But at the meeting it was made very clear that this was in no way a protest action," said Badal. "It would merely be the right of the individual to find what is in their files."

The harassing action "is an indication that the faculties throughout the state are restless," said Badal.

in these policies, but more than that, students have to be aware of what is going on. Our student Senate has the potential to reach the students through the diversity of its Senators. I would like to tap this potential and make it stronger."

What are the qualifications one needs to be a good Student Senate President? According to present Student Senate President Wayne Struble (sr-Fargo), there are four main requirements.

"The first," he said, "is obviously concern for student rights and promoting student welfare. Secondly, a person should have a degree of assertiveness. The administration is open, but someone must take the first step," he added.

Thirdly, he stressed, there must be a willingness to commit the time. Lastly, Struble pointed out that a certain degree of communication skill is needed to deal with students, faculty and administration.

Although these qualities are of primary importance for a Student Senate President, Struble said they apply to a lesser degree to Senators. There are eight candidates running for Student Senate: Doug Gow (history, jr-International Falls), Ron Bergantine (geology, so-Fergus Falls), Cindi Cullen (political science, fr-Utica), Mike Marshall (engineering, so-Dilworth), Marcy Gruenhagen (elementary education and special education, jr-Gibbon), Chuck Meixner (industrial education, fr-Moorhead), David Schornack (business administration and management science, fr-New York Mills) and Jari Cenfield (physical education, fr-St. Louis Park).

Why are these candidates running for Student Senate and what do they hope to accomplish? Gow responded, "I feel I have a responsibility to strive for my own interests and those of my fellow students and to make our opinions and complaints known to an organization that can act upon them. By becoming involved in the Student Senate I feel I could accomplish these goals."

Cullen said, "As a resident on campus I'm interested in getting involved with the student government. I plan on aiding the Student Senate in making its actions known to the students."

According to Marshall, "A senator should have his concerns based on the university's welfare. Being an average student I can relate to the everyday problems students have."

"Senate has to and can do more in the way of student affairs only with total student involvement and student backing which is what I hope to bring into the Senate," said candidate Gruenhagen.

Schornack, who spent his freshman year at the University of Minnesota-Crookston said, "I enjoy the stimulating atmosphere of MSU and feel I can look at MSU from a different perspective because of my past experiences at Crookston. I am in favor of the new student constitution and feel it can be a valuable asset to the students of MSU."

Cenfield explained, "I'm running for Senator because I feel there is a need right now for strong student input. With the student constitution on the ballot this quarter it is essential that we move forward with student interests and not remain stagnant."

Bergantine and Meixner were unavailable for comment.

MSU sorority raises heart fund money

By Mary Priola

February is an important month for the American Heart Association, and also for Moorhead State University's Alpha Phi Sorority. Both organizations will be seeking contributions throughout the month in an effort to fight the nation's number one killer—heart and blood vessel diseases.

Alpha Phi Sorority will be sponsoring three heart fund projects throughout the month. The chapter will kick off the month by canvassing a 24-block-area around the MSU campus for donations.

The sorority will then center their fund drive on the MSU campus by sponsoring a "legs contest" the week of Feb. 14. During this week, individual leg photos of students in MSU campus organizations and dorm floors will be on display in the Comstock Memorial Union. Contributors will be able to donate money to the pair of legs they feel deserves the title of "Alpha Phi's King or Queen of Hearts." The final decisions will be announced 3 p.m. Feb. 17 in the lounge of the CMU. The MSU Stage Band is tentatively scheduled to perform at the coronation.

All donations will be sent to Alpha Phi International Fraternity to be donated to the American Heart Association, along with donations from 105 chapters of Alpha Phi.

Senate discusses new constitution

By Kim Martin

The proposed Student Constitution was the main item of business at the Feb. 7 meeting of the Moorhead State University Student Senate.

Senate President Wayne Struble (sr-Fargo) reminded senators that "now is the time to publicize the establishment of a Student Senate Constitution." Struble felt confident that the constitution would be included on the ballot of the upcoming senate election.

According to Struble, work began on MSU's Student Constitution back in the fall of 1976, even though the Minnesota Internal Rule allowing the development of student constitutions at State Universities was not adopted until January of 1977.

By beginning work on its own constitution well ahead of time, the MSU student senate was able to have a draft of the document ready immediately after the Internal Rule was adopted.

Struble pointed out that a student constitution was needed to "define the role of students in the new governance system, and maintain student input into the process." He added that, prior to the unionization of the faculty, the University and all its components were governed by an all-university constitution. However, Struble said, the faculty's new collective bargaining agreement voided this constitution. The new agreement became the "constitution" between faculty and administration and no longer provided for student input, according to Struble. On the basis of this, the Student Senate decided to draft its own constitution.

Senator Thomas Gunsalus (jr-Rochester) moved the senate vote on the constitution, and the motion was passed with one dissenting vote.

In other senate news;

+The senate voted to pay the Minnesota State University Students Lobbyist program $200 to cover MSU's membership in the program. The program had asked for $358, but the Senate stuck by an earlier agreement in which it had stated it would match the financial commitment of the previous year.

+President Struble named six students to serve on the Series for the Performing Arts committee.

The students are Kelley Grothe (so-Fargo), Chris Lamatsch (so-Elk River), Lynda Lundstrom (jr-Alexandria), Deb Schlichting (so-Sauk Centre), Kathy Wald (jr-Thief River Falls) and Steve Zaiser (sr-Dawson).

The committee, composed of students and faculty members, is responsible for the selection of the different acts that make up the Series for the Performing arts.

The St. Paul Chamber Orchestra will be at Moorhead State University on Feb. 15 and 16 for a residency including an evening performance.

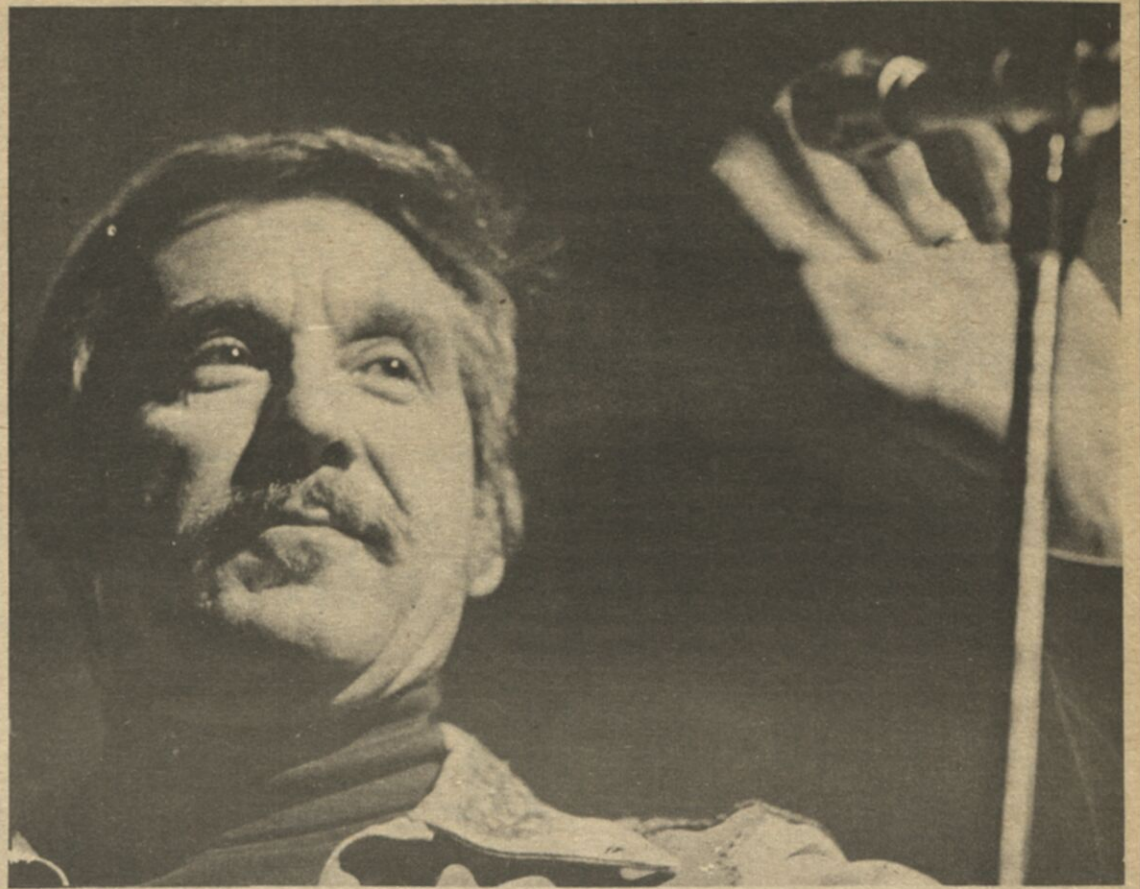

The residency will be jointly sponsored by MSU and the Fargo Public Schools. Information concerning the residency activities may be obtained by calling the Series for the Performing Arts Director, Robert Pattengale, or Vince Lindstrom, who is the Cultural Coordinator for the Fargo Schools.

The public performance will be held Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 8:15 p.m. in the Center for the Arts Auditorium. Tickets are available at the MSU Box Office at 236-2771.

The residency and concert are funded by the Series for the Performing Arts, the Fargo Public Schools, and the Affiliated States Art Agencies of the Upper Midwest, with funds provided by the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Kathryn Posin Dance Company will appear at North Dakota State University Feb. 11 in Festival Hall at 8:15 p.m. The company will conduct several classes while at NDSU, all of which are open to the public at no charge. The classes are, however, limited to 40 participants. For more information, call Marilyn Nass at 237-8681.

Charlene Jones (sr-Moorhead) and Debra Johnson (sr-Grand Forks) will present senior art exhibitions Feb. 14-25 in the CA Gallery. Jones' efforts are concentrated in the area of "hard" sculpture, while Johnson works a great deal with "soft" sculpture.

'Man of La Mancha' characters divided between concepts of reality and illusion

By Lee Alan Morrow

The play "Man of La Mancha", which recently performed at Moorhead State University, deals with the concept of reality versus illusion.

The reality of the play is that Miguel de Cervantes may, at any moment, be taken out of captivity and placed on trial before the Spanish Inquisition; the play's illusory aspects are contained in the play-within-the-play: Cervante's tale of Don Quixote de La Mancha. Unfortunately, the actors of the play also divided themselves according to reality and illusion. Few were honest, "real" people, while the vast majority merely were illusive characters which one could not believe.

The three leading characters of the play were Don Quixote, played by Wayne Ramsey (sr-Milbank, SD); Sancho, portrayed by Rodney Dimmer (sr-Fargo) and Aldonza, depicted by Delrae Knutson (sr-Fertile). They offered us three unique and separate positions of the reality-illusion acting continuum.

Ramsey lived in the realm of illusion. His cartoon characterization neither grew nor changed throughout the play; he did not play each moment as it occurred and then, by connecting all of the moments, end up with a total, three-dimensional character.

Dimmer tended to float between poles of reality and illusion, spending moments in each but never coming to rest in either. He created some wonderful moments when he was with Aldonza and also in the death scene, but wonderful "moments" do not a character make.

It was, instead, in Knutson that we found an actress who was willing to work totally in the world of reality. Knutson ruled the play with her three-dimensionality, her physical presence, and especially, her emotion-packed voice.

The large masses of peripheral characters and chorus persons all lacked the sense of Knutson's emotional reality. Thus, whenever there was a scene with Knutson and others, one was confronted with an unseemly meeting of real and illusory people. In fact, the finest moments within the play were those when Knutson was alone, for then the combination of emotion and truth were commanding.

Robert Hintz, the scenic designer for "Man of La Mancha", created a set that tended to overpower the show. Its scale, being gigantic, pointed up the puny dimensions of the majority of players that ventured onto the stage.

The choreography by Nora Peterson was imaginative and vital. It was unfortunate though, that the dancers could not do justice to it. Perhaps if a smaller dancing chorus had been used, the quality of the dancing could have been kept at a higher level, for the talents within the group ranged from marvelous to mediocre.

The true hero of the production however, was not Don Quixote but rather the lighting designer, Roray Hedges. He achieved the impossible. He carved the vastness of the set down to manageable proportions and created the "illusive reality" of the new places and times that are the structural building-blocks of this episodic play. This feat of doing the impossible shows off the lighting genius that Hedges has repeatedly exhibited.

The idea of creating a play around the central theme of reality versus illusion is one that has been used in the past and will most-likely recur. But the combination of "real" and "illusory", or rather believable and unbelievable characters should not take place. Emotional truth and honesty are difficult to achieve. In MSU's "Man of La Mancha", Delrae Knutson was the only actor to achieve this truth.

MSU Student Constitution

PROPOSED STUDENT CONSTITUTION MOORHEAD STATE UNIVERSITY

Preamble

Students bring to the campus a variety of interests and goals critical to the pursuit of their academic and social development. As members of the academic community of Moorhead State University, students should be free, individually and collectively, to express their views on issues of institutional policy, participate in the making of decisions which affect them, and promote matters of general interest to the student body. The purpose of this constitution is to enumerate the essential provisions for student rights, responsibilities and participation in University governance.

Article I. Student Rights.

Section 1. General Rights.

A. Exercise of Fundamental Rights

All students shall have the protection of all rights enumerated in the State University Board's Governing Rules, Internal Rules, and Operating Policies. The University shall not employ its institutional powers to limit or infringe upon these rights either on or off campus.

B. Discrimination

The University accepts its responsibility to insure equal opportunity to all qualified persons regardless of race, creed, religion, color, national origin, age, physical disability, reliance on public assistance, sex, or marital status, as set forth by state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Section 2. Academic Rights.

A. Freedom of Expression

The professor should encourage free discussion, inquiry and expression. Students shall be free to take reasoned exception to the data or views offered in any course of study and to reserve judgment about matters of opinion, but they are responsible for learning the content of any course of study they are enrolled. (SUB Internal Rule)

B. Evaluation of Students

Students should be evaluated solely on an academic basis, not on opinions or conduct in matters unrelated to academic standards. Students in turn are responsible for maintaining acceptable standards of academic performance for each course in which they are enrolled. (SUB Internal Rule)

C. Learning Environment

The University shall seek to prevent unlawful harassment by those who would intimidate, interfere with or disrupt classes and other authorized activities. (SUB Internal Rule)

D. Property Rights

Term papers, essay, projects, works of art, and similar property shall be returned to the student upon request when no longer needed for evaluation purposes unless the student grants written permission for them to be retained. (SUB Internal Rule)

E. Evaluation of Instruction

Prior to developing or implementing procedures or criteria for evaluation of faculty, the President and-or his/her designee(s) shall meet and discuss the role of students in faculty evaluation with the Student Senate. (SUB Internal Rule)

F. Academic Information

Insofar as possible, prior to enrollment, students will be provided with relevant information regarding courses. Catalog descriptions will be accurate and current based upon information existing at the time of publication. Class schedules will insofar as possible contain faculty names. (SUB Internal Rule)

Section 3. Student Activities

A. Freedom of Association

Students shall be free to organize and join associations to promote their common interests, and they shall be free to examine and discuss all questions of interest to them, and express opinions publicly and privately.

B. Recognition of Student Organizations
Organizations seeking University recognition shall submit to the Student Senate a statement of purpose, criteria of membership, and a current list of officers. The Student Senate shall recommend approval or disapproval to the President and his/her designee. Recognized student organizations shall have access to University facilities, in accordance with institutional policies. (SUB Internal Rule)

C. Guest Speakers

Recognized student organizations may sponsor speakers and events provided there is timely notice, orderly scheduling of facilities, adequate financial planning, and physical preparation in accordance with established censorship. The President or his/her designee may cancel such an event when holding of the event, in his/her judgment, would result in physical harm to persons or property. (SUB Internal Rule)

D. Freedom of the Press

Student funded media shall not be subject to prior censorship nor shall the allocation process be used as a means of editorial control. Student media editors and managers shall not be suspended or removed from their positions during the term of their office except for substantial and compelling reasons and by orderly and prescribed procedures. Such individuals shall adhere to all laws relative to the media, and to professional journalistic standards. (SUB Internal Rule)

Section 4. Right to Privacy

A. General Statement

Each student has the right to determine and conduct his/her own personal life and behavior, so long as it does not violate the law or interfere with the rights of others.

B. Search and Seizure

Students residing on-campus shall not be subject to unreasonable search and seizure.

C. Student Records

The University shall develop with and publish for the students a Student Records Policy consistent with federal and state laws.

Section 5. Judicial Rights

The University shall develop with and publish for the students a clear statement concerning the conduct of students and an explicit code of disciplinary procedure. It shall be understood that in any allegation of misconduct the basic principle of due process, upon which the code of disciplinary procedure must rest, requires that an accused student be informed of the nature of the charge against him and that he be given a fair opportunity to refute it. Accordingly, the code shall define the powers and responsibilities of University officials; shall identify the kinds of penalties that may be imposed; shall recognize the right of the student to be assisted in defense by an advisor or counsel of his choice; shall establish suitable procedure for formal and informal hearings; shall describe the possible disposition of cases; and shall assert the right and state the conditions of appeal.

Section 6. Consultation Relative to the Selection of a President

Students shall be consulted and incorporated in the process by which the President of Moorhead State University is selected.

Section 7. Student Authority for Development and Recommendation of University Policies

A. Through committees and-or procedures designated in this constitution and-or University regulations, students shall develop in consultation with the appropriate administrative officers recommendations relative to:

1. broad policies for the assessment of student activity fees consistent with State University rules, policies, and procedures;
2. The budgets and broad expenditure guidelines for student activities supported by the student activity fee;
3. University regulations pertaining to student conduct, University centers-student unions and student housing.

B. Students shall have the right to make recommendations concerning but not limited to the following:

1. Student Academic appeal procedures;
2. Regulation of mass media supported by student fees;
3. The academic calendar;
4. The curriculum and academic standards;
5. University planning;
6. Resource allocations;
7. Procedures for personal selection;
8. Bookstore operation and funds;
9. Regulation and use of campus facilities;
10. Student financial aid regulations;
11. Classroom attendance policies;
12. Student Role in the Evaluation of Instruction; and
13. Student Records Policy.

Article II. Student Senate

The principal agency for student governance and student participation in University policy development at Moorhead State University shall be the Student Senate.

Section 1. Composition

The Student Senate shall be composed of eighteen (18) members, of whom three (3) shall be officers: a President, a Vice President, and a Treasurer.

Section 2. Terms of Office

Members of the Student Senate shall be elected for terms of one year, to begin the academic quarter immediately following their election. The terms of Senate members shall be staggered, with six (6) expiring each quarter. The President shall assume office at the beginning of spring quarter, the Vice President at the beginning of winter quarter, and the Treasurer as the beginning of fall quarter.

Section 3. Qualification of Members

Any person who meets the University's definition of a student shall be eligible for election, subject to the following conditions:

A. No student who is on academic probation at the time of filing may run for any office. Any student on probation while in office shall be automatically removed from office.

B. A candidate for any office must have a reasonable expectation of being able to complete full term of office for which he/she is filing.

C. Candidates for the offices of President, Vice President and Treasurer shall have completed forty-eight (48) quarter credits by the time of filing.

Section 4. Meeting Procedures

The Student Senate shall meet at least once each month, and more often as necessary, during the academic year. On advance notification of members, the President may call special meetings at such times he/she deems them necessary.

A. A quorum shall consist of two-thirds of the current membership.

B. At all meetings, each member of the Student Senate, including officers shall have one vote.

C. Minutes of all meetings shall be kept and permanently filed for inspection in the Student Senate Office.

D. All meetings of the Student Senate shall be open.

E. Except as the Constitution or its Amendments may otherwise stipulate meetings of the Student Senate and its subordinate structures shall be conducted in accordance with acceptable and generally used parliamentary rules of order, for which, in case of question or dispute, the authority shall be Roberts Rules of Order (Revised Edition).

Section 5. Attendance

A. If a member of the Student Senate is unable to fulfill his office during a quarter, he/she shall submit a written resignation to the President.

B. After a Student Senate member has been absent three (3) times during his/her term of office, the Senate shall determine by majority vote on secret ballot whether that person shall be removed from office.

Section 6. Duties of Officers

A. President. The President shall sit as the chief executive officer of the Student Senate, shall preside at all Senate meetings, shall appoint the committees of the Senate, and shall insure that the provisions of this Constitution are carried out. The President shall also hire and supervise the office secretary of the Senate.

B. Vice President. The Vice President shall sit as the chief executive officer of the Student Senate in the absence of the President. The Vice President shall serve as an ex-officio member of all committees of the Senate, and shall perform such other duties assigned by the President.

C. Treasurer. The Treasurer shall secure the necessary figures from the Business Office and his/her own records and then shall present a report of the financial status of the treasury at each meeting of the Student Senate. The Treasurer shall monitor the expenditures of student activity monies, and with the President, shall serve as members of the body responsible for the allocation of these monies.

Article III. Student Elections

Section 1. Eligibility for Voting

All persons who are students at the time of an election shall be eligible to vote in all student elections.

Section 2. The Student Election Board

The President of the Student Senate, before the end of the second week of each quarter, and after consulting the other officers of the Senate, shall appoint a Student Election Board consisting of five students, only one of whom may be at that time a member of the Student Senate. The President shall also designate as Chairperson one of the members of the Board. All actions of the Board shall be subject to final review by the Student Senate.

A. Duties of the Board

The members of the Student Election Board shall be responsible for the scheduling and early announcements of elections, notice of filing periods, publication and distribution of necessary election procedures and forms, development of election rules necessary to the good conduct of elections, sponsorship of a candidates' open forum, and publication of election results.

B. Disqualification of Members

If a member of the Student Election Board becomes a candidate in an election he/she shall disqualify himself-herself from service of the Board. The President of the Student Senate shall appoint another student to fill the vacancy.

C. Disqualification of Candidates

In the event that a candidate is alleged by another student to have violated the rules developed, published, and distributed by the Board, a hearing shall be held in the presence of both parties to determine the validity of the charges. The Board may disqualify candidates for election rules violations which it deems serious.

D. Preservation of records

After the conclusion of any election, the Student Election Board shall preserve all ballots for one academic quarter. In the absence of any appeal of the results, the ballots may be destroyed. Other records, including the complete tabulation of the results, shall be entered into the Student Senate minutes for permanent records. All records of elections shall be open to inspection by any student, except when a ballot is in progress.

Section 3. Provision for Primary Elections

If the number of candidates running for the office of either President, Vice President, or Treasurer exceeds two (2), a primary election shall be held at a date before the general election of the quarter to be determined by the Student Election Board. The two (2) candidates who receive the largest number of votes shall be placed on the ballot for the general election.

Section 4. Vacancies and Special Elections

Vacancies occurring in the Student Senate for reasons other than the expiration of office shall remain unfilled until the next regular election for that office unless the provision of paragraphs A or B below are invoked.

A. If the number of members falls below twelve (12), all vacancies shall be filled by special election of eligible students to serve for the remainder of the unexpired terms. The choice of terms to be filled shall be given to candidates in the order of number votes received, the candidate receiving the largest number of votes having first choice. A special election shall be conducted in the manner prescribed for regular elections in this Article.

B. If the office of President falls vacant, the Vice President shall succeed to the presidency. If a vacancy occurs in the office of Vice President or Treasurer, it shall not be filled until the next regular election for that office, but the members of the Student Senate shall elect one of their number to serve in the office for the remainder of the unexpired term. Such an in-Senate election shall be by secret ballot and governed by majority rule.

Article IV. Authorization and Approval of this Constitution and its Amendments

Section 1. Repeal of Existing Constitutions

The adoption of this Constitution shall automatically repeal any earlier Constitutions of the University or its components governing or affecting students together with any dependent amendments or bylaws.

Section 2. Continuity of Membership

Individuals who are members of the Student Senate at the time this Constitution is adopted shall not have their terms of membership foreshortened by any provision herein.

Section 3. Amendment of the Constitution

Amendments to this Constitution shall be made in accordance with the provisions set forth in the paragraphs below.

A. Proposals

Proposals for amendments to this Constitution shall be made either by (1) two-thirds vote of the Student Senate, or (2) petition by 10 percent (10 percent) of eligible student voters who have affixed their names and student identification numbers to the proposed amendment. In either case the proposed amendment shall be submitted in writing to the Student Election Board.

B. Certification and Hearings

Upon receiving a proposed amendment and certifying that it conforms to the provisions of Paragraph A., the Student Election Board shall provide for one or more publicized hearings at which members of the University community may testify. The Student Election Board shall also inform the President of the University of the proposed amendment and the time(s) of its hearing.

C. Ratification

A proposed amendment, if submitted prior to the midterm date designated in the University calendar, shall be placed on the general election ballot of that academic quarter. If approved by a majority of those voting, and if at least ten percent (10 percent) of the eligible students voted, it shall become effective immediately upon approval by the President of the University.

Article V. Initiative and Referendum

Measures that do not entail amendments to the Constitution shall be treated in the manner set forth in Article III, Section 3. Such measures may concern the existence or lack of any policy upon the Senate and its actions.

Article VI. Committees

To give effect to the rights and responsibilities of students enumerated in this Constitution and the Rules and Regulations of the State University Board, it is recognized that bodies other than the Student Senate may be established upon concurrence of the Student Senate and the President of the University. These bodies shall act as advisory groups to the President of the University, and shall make independent recommendations to him/her.

Section 1. The Council on Committees: Composition

The Council on Committees shall be composed of the Vice President of the Student Senate, and Vice President of the Inter-Residence Hall Council, the Vice President of the Student Union Programming Board, the Vice President for Student Affairs, and two members appointed by the Senate President to insure broad input.

Section 2. The Council on Committees: Functions

The Council shall meet with the President of the University during spring quarter to recommend a President Advisory committee structure for the upcoming academic year. Thereafter, and during the first two weeks of fall quarter, the Council shall recruit and nominate students for these committees. During the course of the year, the Council may also be requested by the President of the University and the Student Senate to develop and-or act on proposed regulations concerning student affairs.

Section 3. Powers Reserved to the Senate.

A. All nominations of student members to committees shall be subject to confirmation by the Student Senate.

B. All committee actions shall be sent to the Student Senate, which may make an independent recommendation to the President of the University. Those committees concerned with students on an individual basis shall only have their basic policies subject to Senate review.

PARIS IN THE ROARING TWENTIES

In the nineteen twenties in Paris there was a unique convergence of cultural factors to create a hotbed of literary, artistic and musical activity. Americans know of the Paris of Gertrude Stein, Hemingway, and F. Scott Fitzgerald, but in French literature it was a particularly rich and exciting period, the years of Proust, Colette, Cocteau, Gide and others. French 266, Paris in the Roaring Twenties, is an attempt to give students the taste of a unique era in the most beautiful and exciting city in the world. It will be a lively synthesis of music, art, and literature placed in a historical and social context. All readings and discussions are in English. Taught by Dr. James Kaplan, the spring quarter course meets at 2 p.m. in 252 MacLean Hall. For further information call the MSU Department of Languages 236-2912.

What is the constitution? Who are the candidates running for Senate President and Senators? Find out at the Open Forum in the Union Lounge at 7 p.m. on Feb. 16.

Carnival informs undecideds carnival

By Mary Priola

The turn-out at Moorhead State University's academic carnival Sunday (Feb. 5) was meager compared to the number of students with undecided majors at MSU, according to Colleen Hegranes, co-chairman of the event. Approximately 100 people attended the three hour carnival in Comstock Memorial Union lounge.

In order to attract a crowd, the MSU Stage Band opened the carnival with an hour of jazz tunes.

Afterward, student advisors and faculty were available at the various displays from every academic department of MSU.

The purpose of the academic carnival was to provide information about MSU's academic departments to those students who are undecided or unsure of their majors. Students had an opportunity to talk to people in fields of their interest to help them decide on an area of study.

The 33 displays represented the five major areas of study at MSU: arts and humanities, social sciences, sciences, business and technology, and teaching.

Those people who attended the affair were eligible to register for door prizes given-out every 10 minutes throughout the carnival. Prizes consisted of four $5, two $10 and one $20 gift certificates from the MSU Snack Bar and Bookstore.

Angie Lehman (so-Mendota Heights) felt the carnival was enjoyable and informative.

"It was a good change to get to know the student advisors," she noted. "I'd like to see it done every year, especially at this time of year because it gives the freshmen a chance to look over everything after they have already experienced a part of college life."

This academic carnival was the first at MSU since 1972. The departments themselves organized it that year, but student advisors took it over this year because of their concern for the number of students with undecided majors.

How have you benefited by being an R.A.?

"I've learned a lot about myself through other people.

Once I realized that I just have to be me and not just an R.A., everything on my floor went a lot smoother. After all, I'm here to help kids as a friend, not just an R.A. Because of this attitude, I've gotten close to a lot of super people through my position as R.A. I know I can turn to my floor when I'm down which brings us closer. It's good for them and for me. I guess I don't try to separate myself from my floor. In fact, our floor motto (which is being made into t-shirts) is 'all for one and one for all'."

Dragon comeback falls short at NDSU

By Greg Pernula

The Moorhead State University Men's Basketball Team's 1976-77 schedule is winding down to a close and the Dragons are on the move. Last week (Feb. 2 and Feb. 5), the Dragons won two Northern Intercollegiate Conference games on the road against St. Cloud State University, by a score of 81-72, and Bemidji State University, 75-72.

Then, on Monday night (Feb. 7) the Dragons staged a comeback against North Dakota State University but lost by the narrow margin of 96-93.

All of the Dragon's remaining five games are conference games, including three games at home. Southwest State University helped the Dragon cause Saturday night

(Feb. 5) by knocking off the league leader, the University of Minnesota-Morris, 63-61. Now the Dragons will have to contend with Southwest State when they invade Alex Nemzek Fieldhouse on Feb. 9.

"Southwest is a tough team," said Dragon Head Coach Dave Schellhase. "I expect an equally tough game."

After the Southwest State matchup, the Dragons will travel to Winona for a Feb. 12 meeting with the Winona State University, and then travel to Michigan Tech for a Feb. 14 tangle.

"Michigan is ten and seven overall and five and four in the league," said Schellhase. "They started slowly because of injury, but they are now healthy. Winona will also be pretty tough when we have to play them there.

"Both games could make a difference in the conference," he continued. "We have five games in ten days, and we have to do a lot of traveling in that time."

On Monday night against NDSU, the Dragons made what Schellhase called "one of the greatest comebacks ever" to nearly defeat the Bison. The Dragons were down by as much as 16 points with over six minutes to play in the game and stormed back to take a two point lead with almost two minutes left when Mike Spezia (sr-Danville, IL) drove in for a layup and turned it into a three-point play for a 93-91 lead. The Bison regained the lead on U. S. Davidson's 20 foot jump shot with 30 seconds left.

The Dragons, trailing by one, worked the ball around for the last shot. With a few seconds left in the game, Andrew Kelson (sr-Warr., OH) put up a seven foot shot that hung on the rim before falling off. Two final second free throws for the Bison secured the final margin of victory 96-93.

"We didn't play that well," said Schellhase. "It was a frustrating loss, but I'm proud of our kids. We're gonna be in good shape. We were down by sixteen and made it up in four minutes. We just have to do a better job of being ready to play right off the bat."

For the Dragons and the Bison, the statistics did not tell the story. The Dragons lost by three points, but shot only 38 percent from the field, while the Bison shot a record 61 per cent. The Dragons attempted an amazing 97 shots from the floor and made only 36. The Dragons out-rebounded the Bison by a margin of 53-39.

Tony Johnson led MSU in scoring and rebounding with 23 points and 19 rebound, followed by Kelson with 19 points and Spezia with 17.

"Tony (Johnson) deserves publicity," said Schellhase. "He has 59 rebounds in the last four games, and that is what we need down the stretch."

Against St. Cloud, the Dragons played what Schellhase called "one of our better games all year" to defeat the Huskies 81-72.

Kelson led the Dragons in scoring with 27 followed by Jim Kapitan (so-St. John, IN) with 20. Tony Johnson added 11 points and 12 rebounds.

In the game with Bemidji State it was close throughout the whole contest. The Dragons lead went as high as nine points, but they couldn't put the Beavers away and ended up with a 75-72 edge. Kelson led all scorers with 30, while Tony Johnson had 17 points and 15 rebounds. Kapitan had 17 points and 7 rebounds.

"Right now we are in pretty good shape in the conference," said Schellhase. "The last two games could determine the conference, and we have them both at home. The more fans we have at those two games, the better off we will be."

MSU President Roland Dille takes a breather as his faculty teammates go on defense against the Greeks. The faculty held onto a slim half-time lead to defeat the fraternity team in Thursday's (Feb. 3) fundraiser. Photo by Bob Jensen

Big Red Running Machine motors over Mankato

By Glenn Marx

The Moorhead State University Track Team, after defeating highly touted Mankato State University last week, 81-64, must travel to Wisconsin Friday (Feb. 11) and challenge two of the midwest's most formidable track powers—the University of Wisconsin and Southern Illinois University.

The Wisconsin meet, at Madison 7 p.m. Feb. 11, will be a difficult meet for the Dragons to win, so Track Coach Ron Masanz is hoping for another superlative effort.

"We had a super effort against Mankato," said Masanz. "It was one of the most satisfying wins in my ten years of coaching at Moorhead State."

The "Big Red Running Machine" was led by its captain, Dave Thompson (sr-St. Charles), in the win over Mankato. Thompson won the 440-yard run in 51.9 seconds and the 300 with a time of 33 seconds. The 300 was swept by the Dragons with co-captain John Thorvilson (jr-Robbinsdale) occupying second place and Gregg Kloss (fr-Brainerd) third.

Thompson was also a member of the victorious sprint relay and mile relay teams. The sprint relay, with Rich Oven (sr-Swanville), Kloss, and Greg Moss (sr-Miami, FL), was run in one minute, one point one seconds while the mile relay, consisting of Thompson, Bob Beeson (fr-Moorhead), Phil Solum (sr-Hawley), and Thorvilson, defeated the Mankato quartet by nearly three full seconds with a time of 3 minutes, 29.8 seconds.

Coach Masanz said it was a total team effort that defeated Mankato, and every team member contributed in the victory. The win over Mankato extended Moorhead State's unbeaten indoor string in Alex Nemzek Fieldhouse to 34 consecutive victories.

Two Alex Nemzek Fieldhouse records were broken during the meet. New records were established by Mankato State in the mile run and triple jump.

Moorhead did well in the shot put against Mankato, with co-captain Jim Anderson (sr-Moorhead) and Jerry Brandt (jr-Albert Lea) coming in first and second place, respectively. The Dragons showed their strength in the high jump as well, with Dave Bergstrom (so-Albert Lea), the holder of the MSU indoor record, coming in first, and Tony Tuseth (jr-Fertile), the holder of the MSU outdoor record, coming in second.

The Dragons will return home after Friday's meet in Wisconsin and compete in the Inter-City Championship Meet on Tuesday (Feb. 15) at North Dakota State University. This annual meet features the three area colleges and will start at 6 p.m.

Dragon half-miler Ron Graham (so-Highland Park) maintained his lead to take first place honors in the six lap event. Moorhead State won the meet 81-64. Last year the Dragons lost to Mankato State. Photo by Jeff Smedsrud

Minn-Kota Conference tournament here this weekend

By Dave Jacobson

"There are six teams which certainly have a chance of winning it, and I don't believe you can really count any team out of it," said Moorhead State University

Women's Basketball coach, Judy Bowers. She was referring to this weekend's (Feb. 11 and 12) Minn-Kota Conference Basketball Tournament at Alex Nemzek Hall.

MSU's Dragons go into the tournament with the number one rating. They earned this position by winning their first conference basketball regular season championship. In the post-season tournament, the Dragons best showing was in 1973 when they finished second and in 1976 with a third place finish.

Moorhead State opens quarter-final play at 1 p.m. Friday (Feb. 11) against either Mayville State College or North Dakota State University. The Comets and Bison were both 0-6 going into their matchup this past week. MSU will play the loser of that contest. Earlier this year the Dragons defeated MSC 101-24 and NDSU 65-41. These are the two teams which Bowers thinks probably can be counted out of championship consideration.

Quarter-final action will be concluded tomorrow afternoon. There will be two games each at 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Play will take place in Nemzek Fieldhouse and Nemzek 161 (Women's Gym).

Second round action is scheduled for Friday evening and Saturday (Feb. 12) morning. At 7:30 p.m. tomorrow, the championship semi-finals will be played. The consolation semi-finals will be played on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Beginning at 3:30 p.m. Saturday there will be continuous action at Nemzek Fieldhouse. The fifth place game will go at 3:30 p.m., the third place game will start at 5:30 p.m. and the championship game will get under way at approximately 7:30 p.m.

Besides MSU, NDSU, and MSC, the other schools participating are the University of Minnesota-Morris, Bemidji State University, Concordia College, Valley City State College, and the University of North Dakota.

Concordia defeated UND for the championship last year. In 1975, Bemidji State took home the first place trophy.

"If we win our first game, I'd rather end up playing Bemidji or Concordia than anyone else," said Bowers. "I didn't think I would ever find myself saying that, but psychologically I think it's the best position we could be in. They've been our nemesises over the last few years."

BSU certainly proved to be a Dragon 'nemesisis' in 1977 once again as the Beavers handed MSU its only conference loss 68-66 at Bemidji Feb. 1.

"There were three things which made the difference at Bemidji," commented Bowers. "They were fouls, rebounds, and Lori Hutchins."

BSU was charged with only eight fouls compared to 17 for MSU. The Beavers controlled the boards 51-38, and Hutchins led BSU with 22 points and 18 rebounds.

The loss to Bemidji State put MSU in a must win position against gymnasts win own invitational

By Nancy O'Brien

Moorhead State University's Women's Gymnastics Team seemed to have a bit of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in them during their meets at Mayville State last Thursday (Feb. 3) and at Moorhead on Monday (Feb. 7).

At Mayville State, MSU placed fourth in a field of six teams. Michele Bennett (so-Moorhead) was the only MSU gymnast to place in the top six in any of the five events at Mayville with a fourth place finish in the vault.

But on Monday MSU was a different team and took first place in a home meet that included Valley City State and Concordia College.

One reason for the abrupt turn around was Jo Pavicic (sr-Fargo). Pavicic, who finished first in the floor exercise, beam, uneven parallel bars and the all-around competition on Monday, didn't participate in the Mayville meet.

Injuries were also a major factor in MSU's performance at Mayville. Barb Jones, women's gymnastics coach at MSU, said, "We had a lot of injuries before the Mayville meet. We couldn't even fill the floor exercise, which is unusual." Jones explained, "A team must have four people in an event to get the points earned in that event; we only had three people in the floor exercise so we didn't get any points for that event."

Four women were injured and unable to compete at Mayville. Karen Zimmerman (fr-Jamestown, N.D.) was out with a back injury. Laurie Christianson (fr-Moorhead) had a neck injury and a jammed toe, while Jenny Broden (so-Fertile) had torn foot ligaments and Tricia Broden (fr-Fertile) had torn shoulder ligaments.

Jones offered another reason for the injuries besides just a rash of bad luck. "Since they've turned down the heat we've had a lot of injuries," she said. "I don't know for sure if the two are related but they could be."

MSU dominated the vault event Monday by placing five people in the top six positions. They were Pavicic, second; Daidre Abrahamson (so-New York Mills), third; Bennett, fourth; Zimmerman, fifth; and Jolita Beckler (fr-Bismarck, N.D.) sixth.

In floor exercise MSU again had a strong showing with Pavicic, first, Sharon Smith (jr-Moorhead), second, Beckler, fifth, and Zimmerman, sixth.

The beam competition was won by Pavicic with Zimmerman in second place and Beckler in fifth.

The uneven parallel bars event was also won by Pavicic with second place going to Becky Kirchgasser (fr-Morton), third to Beckler, and sixth place to Leslie UMM last Thursday (Feb. 3). The Dragons and Cougars both came into the game with Minn-Kota Conference records of 5-1 which tied them for first place.

MSU quickly jumped to a 17-6 lead with 12 minutes and 6 seconds remaining in the first half. UMM cut the lead to one point twice in the final two minutes of the half before the Dragons grabbed a 29-26 lead at the intermission.

Moorhead State outscored Minnesota-Morris 10-0 in the first six minutes of the second half to gain a 39-26 advantage. The Dragons led by as many as 19 points at 61-42 and 63-44 before finally winning it 64-46.

Betty Fiandaca (so-Moorhead) led MSU in scoring with 20 points, and Val Kapp (jr-Richland, PA) contributed 19 points.

Moorhead State concludes its regular season Tuesday (Feb. 15) in a non-conference game at NDSU. Next weekend (Feb. 18 and 19) MSU will compete in the Northern Division playoffs of the Minnesota Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) Basketball Tournament at Concordia-St. Paul.

intramural update

By Rob Lein

The Rangers are angry. Which Rangers are angry, you may ask? Well, it seems that most of the students that play on all the different intramural Rangers teams at Moorhead State University are, and they're all angry at me.

What the Rangers are angry with is the way I treated them in last week's "Intramural Update," especially the following paragraph: "The interesting thing about the Rangers is that hardly any of the different Rangers' teams have the same players on them. If they were all the same players, there would be a lot of Rangers running around MSU carrying two credits per quarter."

The Rangers' anger at the story and that last paragraph was brought to my attention early (1 a.m. to be exact) one morning by a girl who plays on the Ranger's co-ed broomball team. Saying she represented a lot of players on all the Rangers' teams, she told me that the story "made us sound like a bunch of dumb — s." She also noted that one Ranger is taking only two credits this quarter.

First of all, I do not think that any member of any Ranger teams is a dumb —. If I did, I would have said so.

I do feel, however, that if a person takes too much time playing intramurals, he isn't going to have enough time with his studies. I don't know if any of the Rangers are guilty of this, but that's not the point I was trying to make. This covers everyone involved in intramurals.

I also feel that there is a funny phenomenon about all the Rangers' teams. There is a Ranger team for practically every intramural sport; there has been for quite some time at Moorhead State.

It's also interesting to note that most of these Ranger teams are, and always have been, winners in MSU intramurals.

One good thing about that telephone call is this—every newspaper writer likes to know that the people are reading what he has written, no matter how they feel about it. So keep them calls, cards and letters coming in, folks. But please, don't call after midnight.

Registration for this weekend's racketball tournament ended Wednesday (Feb. 9). The tournament will have participants in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

The matches will begin at 4 p.m. Friday (Feb. 11) and at 9 a.m. Saturday (Feb. 12). The finals will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday (Feb. 13). All action will be in the racketball courts at Alex Nemzek Hall.

A Moorhead State intramural swimming meet will take place on Thursday (Feb. 17) in the swimming pool of Alex Nemzek Hall. Registration, which began Monday (Feb. 7), will continue until Tuesday, (Feb. 15).

Yanagita, Knudson win IM cross country ski meet

Gary Yanagita (so-St. Louis Park) and Kim Knudson (jr-Moorhead) were the winners of the Moorhead State University Cross Country Skiing Tournament Saturday (Feb. 5) in Moorhead's Gooseberry Park. The tournament was sponsored by the MSU intramural department.

Despite the small turnout of participants (four entered in the men's division while only two in the women's), it appears that those who showed up enjoyed themselves.

"It was really interesting and really fun," said Lois Schauer (sr-Ashley, ND), second place finisher in the women's division and co-student coordinator for Moorhead State intramurals. "It's just too bad that more people didn't show up. Everyone there had a great time."

Knudson shares Schauer's ideas. "I don't understand why there weren't any people there," said Knudson. "It was really disappointing. It was such a beautiful day to ski and cross country skiing is becoming such a popular sport."

Originally, Knudson was the only woman entered in the race. But to give some competition, Schauer decided to enter.

Knudson said that it was her job to track the course, making marks on the course to show the racers where to ski. Because of this, she got to know the course well and, subsequently, decided to enter the race.

"I do it for pleasure," commented Knudson about cross country skiing. "It's so much better to see where you're at rather than to just go down hill in one big blur."

Knudson said that her cousin got her interested in cross country skiing three years ago, and that she's been skiing ever since. "I try to get out (skiing) about three times a week," she said.

Yanagita, who also runs middle distances for the Moorhead State men's track team, has been skiing for six years. He got his big taste of cross country skiing when he was on the St. Louis Park High School cross country team.

"I haven't had that much of a chance to do very much skiing since I came here because I'm usually too busy," said Yanagita. "Since last year I've gotten out about four or five times. This was only the third time I've skied this year."

When asked what he felt of downhill skiing, Yanagita said that he has tried downhill skiing twice before. "That (downhill) get's a little too expensive," he said.

who sings of waitresses, strippers, and old cars, of down and outs who are into muscatel and gin, and of late nights and smokey barrooms is back with his fourth album on Asylum Records.

"Small Change"

Waits' music is a lesson in reality with its bluesy, jazzy and cool presentation of pain, poverty and perversion.

"Small Change," a small price to pay for a contemporary talent.

Tom Waits' new album, "Small Change," on Asylum Records and Tapes. Produced by Bones Howe for Mr. Bones Publications, Inc.
